Savings and Credit Unions Act

---

Introduction

Introduced by Mr Pierre Fortier
Minister for Finance and Privatization

---

Québec Official Publisher
1988

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This bill proposes a reform of the legislative measures applicable to savings and credit unions, federations of savings and credit unions and confederations of federations.

The bill specifies the objects that must be pursued by these financial institutions and establishes the rules governing their incorporation, organization and operation.

The bill defines the scope of the activities that a credit union or a federation may engage; in this respect it provides, in particular, that the Government will have the power to permit a credit union or a group of credit unions to engage in other activities in the interest of the public and members of the credit union or credit unions.

The bill also introduces, in respect of the federations and the credit unions affiliated with one of the federations, the obligation to maintain, collectively, a capital base at the level determined by law and in certain cases by the Inspector General of Financial Institutions.

The bill amends the rule governing the distribution of surplus earnings by allowing, for instance, a credit union to allocate part of its surplus earnings to the payment of interest on permanent shares or the setting up of a stabilization fund and by permitting credit unions to consider the nature of the transactions made by the depositors and borrowers in the payment of dividends.

Various amendments to the existing system of inspection and audit are also proposed. The role played by the Inspector General with respect to the supervision and control of credit unions, federations and confederations, and of the legal persons controlled by them is clarified and his powers to conduct inquiries, inspections or other action are broadened.

The bill also proposes rules relating to the control exercised by the Government with regard to the management and transactions and solvency of the said financial institutions, rules relating to conflicts of interest and self-dealing and rules relating to the payment of expenses incurred for the administration of the Act by the federations and, in certain cases, by unaffiliated credit unions.

Finally, the bill contains transitional provisions with respect to existing credit unions and federations and a certain number of concordance amendments, including amendments to the Act respecting La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec.

Bill 70

Savings and Credit Unions Act

THE PARLIAMENT OF QUÉBEC ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

TITLE I

APPLICATION AND INTERPRETATION

1. This Act applies to every savings and credit union, federation of credit unions or confederations of federations incorporated or resulting from an amalgamation under this Act.

It also applies to every credit union, federation or federation of federations formerly governed by the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4).

2. Credit unions are cooperatives operating according to the following rules of cooperative action:

- (1) the number of members is not limited;
- (2) no member is entitled to more than one vote, regardless of the number of shares held by him;
- (3) no member may vote by proxy;
- (4) the payment of interest on the capital is limited;
- (5) a general reserve must be set up and the amounts paid into it cannot be distributed to the members, even in the event of a winding-up or dissolution;
- (6) surplus earnings are allocated in accordance with this Act.

3. The objects of a credit union are

- (1) to receive the savings of its members and invest them for profit;
- (2) to grant credit to its members;
- (3) to promote cooperation between the members and the credit union and between the credit union and other cooperative bodies;
- (4) to further the development of knowledge in the economic, social and cooperative sectors.

4. A federation is a cooperative whose objects are, in addition to those of a credit union,

- (1) to protect the interests of the credit unions affiliated with it, foster the attainment of their objects and promote their development;
- (2) to act as control and supervisory body over the credit unions affiliated with it, to the extent provided for in this Act;
- (3) to provide educational, promotional, consultative, technical assistance and other similar services to the credit unions affiliated with it;
- (4) to establish and administer funds in accordance with Chapter VIII of Title III.

5. The confederation is a cooperative whose objects are

- (1) to protect the interests of the federations affiliated with it, foster the attainment of their objects, promote their development, coordinate their activities and provide joint services to them;
- (2) to act as control and supervisory body over the federations affiliated with it and over credit unions affiliated with those federations, to the extent provided for in this Act;
- (3) to provide educational, promotional, consultative, technical assistance and other similar services to the federations affiliated with it and to the credit unions affiliated with those federations;

(4) to enter, for the attainment of the objects of the federations affiliated with it and of the credit unions affiliated with those federations, into agreements which a federation or a credit union is authorized to join.

6. A federation of federations of savings and credit unions is a confederation within the meaning of this Act.

7. A legal person is controlled by a person where the latter holds, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of the voting rights attached to the shares of the former or can elect a majority of its directors.

8. For the purposes of this Act, the following entities form part of the same group:

(1) a confederation, the federations affiliated with the confederation, the security fund corporation incorporated at the request of the confederation as well as any other legal person directly or indirectly controlled by the confederation and any federation affiliated with that legal person;

(2) a federation not affiliated with a confederation, the security fund corporation incorporated at the request of that federation as well as any other legal person directly or indirectly controlled by that federation.

TITLE II

CREDIT UNIONS

CHAPTER I

REPRESENTATION OF THE CREDIT UNION BEFORE ITS INCORPORATION

9. Every credit union is bound by any act performed in its interest before its incorporation, provided it ratifies it within 90 days from incorporation.

The ratification transfers to the credit union the rights and obligations of the person who performed the act, but does not of itself effect a novation. The person who performed the act has the same rights and is bound by the same obligations in respect of the credit union as a mandatary.

10. A person who performs an act in the interest of a credit union before its incorporation is bound by that act unless the contract entered into for the credit union includes a clause excluding or limiting his liability and a statement to the effect that the credit union might not be incorporated or might not assume its obligations.

CHAPTER II

AFFILIATION

11. Every credit union must be affiliated with a federation.

12. No credit union may be incorporated unless a federation has undertaken to admit it as a member and to furnish, at the request of the Inspector General of Financial Institutions, such guarantees as he may consider sufficient to ensure the protection of the members of the credit union to be incorporated.

The guarantees required pursuant to the first paragraph may be furnished by a security fund corporation.

13. The Minister may, if he deems it expedient and after obtaining the advice of the Inspector General, authorize, on the conditions he determines, the incorporation of a credit union even if no federation has undertaken to admit it as a member and exempt the credit union from compliance with section 11 if the founders have furnished guarantees considered sufficient by the Inspector General to ensure the protection of the members of the credit union to be incorporated.

14. The Minister may, if he considers it advisable and after obtaining the advice of the Inspector General, exempt a credit union affiliated with a federation from compliance with section 11 on the conditions he determines, if the credit union establishes to his satisfaction that it has fulfilled all its obligations toward the federation and if it has furnished guarantees considered sufficient by the Inspector General to ensure the protection of its members.

15. Every application by a credit union for affiliation with a federation, other than an application made prior to its incorporation, and every application for disaffiliation must be authorized by a resolution of its board of directors stating the name of the representative of the credit union who is authorized to sign the application and be ratified by two-thirds of the votes cast by the members present at a special meeting or, provided the object of the resolution is mentioned in the notice calling the meeting, at an annual meeting.

The credit union must, within 10 days of the ratification, transmit a certified copy of the resolution to the Inspector General with proof of its ratification.

16. A credit union which decides to disaffiliate from a federation or which is expelled following a decision of the federation with which it is affiliated must, within 60 days of the ratification of the resolution or decision, pass a by-law or resolution, as the case may be, to affiliate with another federation, apply for the incorporation of a new federation, amalgamate with a credit union affiliated with another federation, be wound up or apply to the Minister for an exemption from compliance with section 11.

17. Every credit union affiliated with a federation that is wound up or dissolved, must, within 60 days of the publication of the notice of winding-up or dissolution in the Gazette officielle du Québec, pass a by-law or resolution, as the case may be, to affiliate with another federation, apply for the incorporation of a new federation, amalgamate with a credit union affiliated with another federation, be wound up or apply to the Minister for an exemption from compliance with section 11.

18. A credit union remains affiliated with a federation

(1) until another federation has undertaken to admit it as a member or until the new federation for whose incorporation it has applied is incorporated and the credit union has obtained articles of amendment to that effect;

(2) until it has amalgamated with a credit union affiliated with another federation;

(3) until it is dissolved;

(4) until it is exempted from compliance with section 11 from the Minister.

19. The Inspector General shall not accept to amend the articles of a credit union to change its affiliation unless the credit union establishes to his satisfaction that it has fulfilled all its obligations toward the federation with which it is affiliated.

CHAPTER III

CORPORATE NAME

20. The corporate name of a credit union must not be liable to confusion with another corporate name or firm name.

The corporate name of a credit union must not contain the term “association” or “partnership”.

21. The corporate name of a credit union shall contain one or a combination of the following expressions: “caisse populaire”, “caisse Desjardins”, “caisse Desjardins de financement”, “caisse populaire Desjardins”, “caisse d’épargne”, “caisse d’économie”, “caisse d’économie Desjardins” or “caisse de crédit”.

No person or partnership other than a credit union governed by this Act, a federation of credit unions, a confederation of federations, a security fund corporation or a legal person directly or indirectly controlled by a confederation may include in his or its corporate name or firm name or use in his or its activities any expression or combination of expressions mentioned in the first paragraph. The same applies to the English version of a corporate name with respect to the expressions “credit union” and “savings union”.

22. No credit union may be incorporated under a corporate name that includes the expression “caisse populaire”, “caisse Desjardins”, “caisse Desjardins de financement”, “caisse populaire Desjardins”, “caisse d’économie” or “caisse d’économie Desjardins”, unless La Confédération des caisses populaires et d’économie Desjardins du Québec has, by resolution, consented to its use and a federation which is a member of such confederation has, by resolution, undertaken to admit the credit union as a member.

23. Every credit union whose corporate name contains one of the expressions mentioned in section 22 and which ceases to be affiliated with a federation affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d’économie Desjardins du Québec must, within 60 days from the date on which it ceases to be affiliated, submit articles of amendment to the Inspector General for the purpose of changing its corporate name.

24. The Inspector General may order a credit union to submit, within 60 days of service of the order, articles of amendment for the purpose of changing its corporate name where its corporate name is not consistent with the legislation in force at the time it was granted. If the credit union fails to submit such articles of amendment within the prescribed time, the Inspector General may, of his own motion, assign another corporate name to the credit union.

The Inspector General may also assign another corporate name to a credit union which ceases to be affiliated with a federation that is a member of La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec if, 60 days after the date on which it ceased to be affiliated, it has failed to submit articles of amendment for the purpose of changing its corporate name.

25. Where, of his own motion, the Inspector General assigns a corporate name to a credit union, he shall issue, in duplicate, a certificate attesting the change and publish notice of the change in the Gazette officielle du Québec.

The Inspector General shall register one duplicate of the certificate and send the other to the credit union. The change becomes effective on the date appearing on the certificate.

26. No credit union may, in the course of its business, identify itself under a name other than its corporate name.

27. No change of name shall affect the rights and obligations of a credit union, and proceedings pending by or against the credit union may be continued under its new name without continuance of suit.

CHAPTER IV

HEAD OFFICE

28. The head office of a credit union constitutes its domicile. It must be located in the judicial district specified in its articles.

29. A credit union may change the location of its head office within the boundaries of the judicial district specified in its articles by resolution of its board of directors.

The credit union must, within 10 days of the adoption of the resolution, give notice of the change to the Inspector General who shall cause a copy of the notice to be published in the Gazette officielle du Québec at the expense of the credit union.

30. A credit union may transfer its head office to another judicial district provided its articles are amended accordingly.

A notice of the change of address of the head office of a credit union must accompany any amendment to the articles providing for the transfer.

31. The Inspector General shall register every notice of change of address of the head office of a credit union.

CHAPTER V

INCORPORATION

32. Twelve or more founders may apply for the incorporation of a credit union.

33. Any natural person having his domicile, a residence, a place of business or regular work in the territory set out in the articles of the credit union or who belongs to the group described therein may be a founder, except

(1) a minor;

(2) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(3) an undischarged bankrupt.

34. The articles of a credit union shall set out

(1) its corporate name;

(2) the judicial district in which its head office in Québec is located;

(3) the territory in or group from which it may recruit its members;

(4) the surname, given name, address and occupation of each founder;

(5) the corporate name of the federation with which the credit union will be affiliated where that is the case;

(6) the conditions and restrictions, if any, concerning the exercise of certain powers or the pursuit of certain activities.

The articles may include any other provision that a credit union is authorized to adopt by by-law under this Act.

35. The articles of a credit union, signed by each founder, shall be transmitted in duplicate to the Inspector General.

36. The articles must be accompanied with

(1) an application, signed by two founders, requesting the Minister to authorize the incorporation of the credit union;

(2) a notice of the surname, given name, address and occupation of the person designated as the provisional secretary of the credit union;

(3) a notice of the manner in which the organization meeting will be called;

(4) a notice of the address of the head office;

(5) a certified copy of the resolution, if any, of the federation which has undertaken to admit the credit union as a member;

(6) for the purposes of section 22, a certified copy of the resolution of La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec stating that it has given its consent to the use of the proposed corporate name;

(7) the documents constituting the guarantees referred to in section 12, 13 or 14;

(8) the financial forecasts of the assets, liabilities and results for the credit union's first year of operation;

(9) a professional evaluation of the needs, within the territory or group described in the articles, which can be met by the incorporation of a credit union;

(10) any document required by regulation of the Government.

37. The Inspector General may require such additional document or information as he may consider necessary for the examination of the application.

38. Upon receipt of the articles and accompanying documents, the fees prescribed by regulation of the Government and any additional document or information he required, the Inspector General shall make a report to the Minister.

39. The Minister may, if he considers it advisable and after obtaining the advice of the Inspector General, authorize the Inspector General to incorporate the credit union.

For that purpose, the Inspector General shall

(1) endorse on each duplicate of the articles the words “credit union incorporated”;

(2) prepare in duplicate a certificate attesting the incorporation of the credit union and stating the date of its incorporation;

(3) attach a duplicate of the articles to each duplicate of the certificate;

(4) register one duplicate of the certificate and of the articles and accompanying documents;

(5) send the other duplicate of the certificate and of the articles to the credit union or its representative;

(6) send a certified copy of the certificate and of the articles to the federation which has undertaken to admit the credit union as a member and to the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case;

(7) cause a notice of the issue of the certificate to be published in the Gazette officielle du Québec at the expense of the credit union.

40. From the date appearing on the certificate of incorporation, which may be subsequent to the date on which the certificate is made, the credit union is a legal person within the meaning of the Civil Code.

CHAPTER VI

ORGANIZATION MEETING

41. The founders shall hold an organization meeting within 60 days of the incorporation of the credit union.

The Inspector General may grant an extension even after the sixty-day period has expired.

42. The meeting shall be called by the provisional secretary. If the provisional secretary is unable or refuses to act, the meeting shall be called by two founders.

43. Every person or partnership who or which transmitted an application for membership to the provisional secretary before the notice calling the meeting was sent and who or which is accepted at the beginning of the meeting by the founders named in the articles is deemed to be a founder for the purposes of the meeting.

44. At the meeting, the founders must

- (1) adopt internal management by-laws;
- (2) subscribe and pay for the number of qualifying shares prescribed by by-law of the credit union or, in the absence of such a by-law, one qualifying share;
- (3) pass a resolution to ratify the affiliation of the credit union with the federation that has undertaken to admit it as a member, where that is the case;
- (4) elect the members of the board of directors, of the board of supervision and of the credit committee;
- (5) appoint an auditor where this Act so requires.

The founders may, in addition, adopt any other by-law or take any other measure concerning the affairs of the credit union.

45. Within 30 days after the meeting, the credit union shall transmit to the Inspector General

- (1) a list containing the surname, given name, address and occupation of each member of the board of directors, of the board of supervision and of the credit committee;
- (2) a notice defining the fiscal year of the credit union;
- (3) a certified copy of the resolution of the meeting of the founders ratifying the affiliation of the credit union with the federation that has undertaken to admit it as a member, where that is the case;
- (4) a notice stating the name of the auditor or, as the case may be, of the federation or confederation entrusted with the audit.

CHAPTER VII

AMENDMENTS TO ARTICLES

46. The articles of a credit union cannot be amended except by a by-law of the credit union.

The by-law must designate one of the directors who will be authorized to sign the articles of amendment and the accompanying application.

The by-law shall be submitted for approval to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, unless the object of the by-law is to change its affiliation.

47. The credit union shall transmit in duplicate to the Inspector General the articles of amendment signed by the director authorized for that purpose.

48. The articles of amendment must be accompanied with

(1) an application for the amendment of the articles signed by the director authorized for that purpose;

(2) a certified copy of the credit union's by-law approving the amendments to the articles;

(3) a certified copy of the federation's resolution approving the amendment by-law, where the credit union is affiliated with a federation;

(4) any other document required by regulation of the Government.

49. Where the object of articles of amendment is to change the corporate name of a credit union to include one of the expressions mentioned in section 22, they must be accompanied with a certified copy of the resolution of La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec which states its consent to the use of the proposed corporate name.

50. The Inspector General may require such additional document or information as he considers necessary for the examination of the application.

51. Upon receipt of the articles of amendment and accompanying documents, the fees prescribed by regulation of the Government and any additional document or information he required, the Inspector General may amend the articles if he considers it advisable.

For that purpose, the Inspector General, in addition to the procedure set out in subparagraphs 3 to 7 of the second paragraph of section 39, shall endorse "articles amended" on each duplicate of the articles of amendment and prepare a certificate, in duplicate, attesting the amendment and stating its date of effect, which may be subsequent to the date on which the certificate is made.

CHAPTER VIII

UPDATING OF ARTICLES

52. The Inspector General may issue updated articles to any credit union applying therefor.

For that purpose, the Inspector General, in addition to the procedure set out in subparagraphs 3 to 6 of the second paragraph of section 39, shall endorse "articles updated" on each duplicate of the articles and prepare a certificate, in duplicate, attesting the updating of the articles and stating their date of effect, which may be subsequent to the date on which the certificate is made.

53. The updated articles shall replace the original articles of the credit union from the date on which they take effect.

54. The updated articles shall prevail over the replaced articles for any event which occurred on or after the date on which they take effect, but the replaced articles shall prevail over the updated articles for any event which occurred before that date.

CHAPTER IX

AMALGAMATION

55. Two or more credit unions may amalgamate. The amalgamating credit unions shall prepare an amalgamation agreement, in duplicate, setting out

(1) the corporate name of the amalgamated credit union, the judicial district of its head office, the territory in or group from which it may recruit its members and, where that is the case, the corporate name of the federation with which it will be affiliated;

(2) the surname, given name, address and occupation of each of the first members of the board of directors, of the board of supervision and of the credit committee;

(3) the mode of election of subsequent members of the board of directors, of the board of supervision and of the credit committee;

(4) the number of issued shares in each of the amalgamating credit unions, the price of each share and the manner of converting them into shares of the amalgamated credit union;

(5) the conditions and restrictions, if any, concerning the exercise of certain powers or the pursuit of certain activities;

(6) the consent of the federation that has undertaken to admit the amalgamated credit union as a member, where that is the case;

(7) such other provisions as are necessary to perfect the amalgamation and to provide for the organization and management of the amalgamated credit union.

56. Each credit union shall adopt the agreement, by by-law, at a special meeting. The by-law must designate a director who will be authorized to sign the articles of amalgamation and the accompanying application. The vote of the members shall be attested by the secretary on each duplicate of the agreement.

57. The notice calling the special meeting must be accompanied with a duplicate or a summary of the amalgamation agreement.

A copy of the notice and accompanying document shall be transmitted, within the time prescribed for calling the meeting, to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case. A representative of the federation may attend and be heard at the meeting.

58. Once the amalgamation by-laws are adopted, the amalgamating credit unions shall jointly prepare articles of amalgamation which must contain, in addition to the provisions that may be included in articles of incorporation pursuant to this Act, those set out in paragraph 1 of section 55.

59. The articles of amalgamation, prepared in duplicate and signed by the director of each of the amalgamating credit unions who is authorized for that purpose shall be transmitted to the Inspector General within six months of the adoption of the first amalgamation by-law by one of the amalgamating credit unions.

60. The articles of amalgamation must be accompanied with

(1) a joint application requesting the Inspector General to authorize the amalgamation of the credit unions, signed by the directors authorized for that purpose;

(2) a duplicate of the amalgamation agreement;

(3) a certified copy of each by-law approving the amalgamation;

(4) a memorandum signed by the amalgamating credit unions or by the federations with which they are affiliated, where that is the case, setting forth the reasons for and objectives of the amalgamation;

(5) a notice of the address of the head office of the amalgamated credit union;

(6) a notice defining the fiscal year of the amalgamated credit union and stating the name of the auditor, if any;

(7) a certified copy of the resolution of the federation which has undertaken to admit the amalgamated credit union as a member, where that is the case;

(8) the financial forecasts of the assets, liabilities and results for the first year of operation of the amalgamated credit union;

(9) any other document required by regulation of the Government.

61. The Inspector General may require such additional document or information as he may consider necessary for the examination of the application.

62. Upon receipt of the articles of amalgamation and accompanying documents, the fees prescribed by regulation of the Government and any additional document or information he required, the Inspector General may authorize the amalgamation if he considers it advisable.

For that purpose, the Inspector General, in addition to the procedure set out in subparagraphs 3 to 7 of the second paragraph of section 39, shall endorse "amalgamated credit union" on each duplicate of the articles of amalgamation and prepare, in duplicate, a certificate attesting the amalgamation and stating its date of effect, which may be subsequent to the date on which the certificate is made.

63. From the date of amalgamation, the amalgamating credit unions are continued as one and the same credit union.

The amalgamated credit unions shall acquire all the rights and assume all the obligations of each of the amalgamating credit unions. Proceedings pending by or against the amalgamating credit unions may be continued without continuance of suit.

64. Credit unions may also amalgamate by absorption. A credit union may absorb another credit union provided the liabilities of the absorbed credit union, consisting of the deposits of its members, do not exceed 25% of its own such liabilities.

65. Sections 55 to 62, adapted as required, apply to an amalgamation by absorption.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, an absorbing credit union may approve the amalgamation agreement by a mere resolution of its board of directors.

A certified copy of the resolution must be transmitted, within 10 days of its adoption, to the Inspector General and to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case.

66. From the date of amalgamation, the absorbing credit union shall acquire the rights and assume the obligations of the absorbed credit union.

The absorbed credit union shall from that date be deemed to continue as the absorbing credit union and its members shall become members of the absorbing credit union.

CHAPTER X

CAPITAL STOCK

DIVISION I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

67. The capital stock of a credit union shall consist of qualifying shares. It may include permanent shares and preferred shares.

The capital stock is variable.

68. The shares shall be in registered form and may be issued only to members or, where permitted by the by-laws of the credit union, to auxiliary members.

69. Only fully paid shares may be issued. They must be paid for in money, except in the case of

(1) shares issued as a dividend;

(2) shares issued as payment for or for the conversion of preferred shares;

(3) shares issued in accordance with the terms of an amalgamation agreement.

QUALIFYING SHARES

70. The price of qualifying shares shall be determined by by-law of the credit union or, if the credit union is affiliated with a federation, by by-law of the federation.

71. No credit union may pay interest on qualifying shares it has issued.

72. No credit union may redeem the qualifying shares it has issued except in the event of the death, withdrawal or expulsion of a member or in the event of the winding-up, insolvency or dissolution of the credit union.

DIVISION III

PERMANENT SHARES

73. A credit union may issue permanent shares where authorized to do so by by-law.

The by-law must state the number of permanent shares the credit union is authorized to issue, the amount of the issue, the par value of each share, the preferences, rights and restrictions attached to them and any special condition applicable to their redemption or transfer.

The by-law shall be submitted for approval to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Inspector General.

74. The credit union shall issue certificates attesting the issue of permanent shares. Each certificate shall indicate the par value of the share, the preferences, rights and restrictions attached to it and any special condition applicable to its redemption or transfer.

75. Permanent shares are transferable among members, including auxiliary members, where permitted by the by-law of the credit union and between such members and the confederation with which the federation of which the credit union is a member is affiliated, where that is the case.

Permanent shares may also be transferred to third persons if they have been given as security by a member or an auxiliary member.

Permanent shares transferred to the confederation or to third persons may be subsequently transferred only to members of the credit union which issued them, including auxiliary members, where permitted by the by-law of the credit union.

76. A credit union must cease to issue permanent shares where the confederation with which the federation of which it is a member is affiliated holds, in the fund set up for such purposes, permanent shares issued by the credit union.

77. No permanent share shall entitle its holder to obtain, in the event of the winding-up, insolvency or dissolution of the credit union, any payment for his shares before the deposits, the other debts and the preferred shares of the credit union have been paid or redeemed. However, permanent shares, except those held by the confederation, have priority over qualifying shares.

78. Except in the event of winding-up, insolvency or dissolution, permanent shares issued by a credit union are redeemable only in case of the death of their holder.

79. The credit union may redeem permanent shares held for at least five years by a person who is 60 years of age and have availed himself of a right to pre-retirement or to retirement or by a person who is 65 years of age.

No payment may be made under this section if the capital base of the credit union or, as the case may be, of the federation with which it is affiliated is equal or thereby lowered to a level that is lower than the level required pursuant to this Act.

80. The only interest payable on permanent shares is the interest that may be determined by the general meeting. Where the credit union is affiliated with a federation, the rate of interest must not exceed the maximum rate prescribed by by-law of the federation. Where the federation is affiliated with a confederation, the maximum rate is determined by by-law of the confederation.

DIVISION IV

PREFERRED SHARES

81. A credit union may issue preferred shares where authorized to do so by by-law.

The by-law must state the number of preferred shares the credit union is authorized to issue, the amount of the issue, the par value of each share, the preferences, rights and restrictions attached to those shares and any special condition applicable to their redemption, purchase or transfer.

The by-law shall be submitted for approval to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Inspector General.

82. No unaffiliated credit union may issue preferred shares unless the sum of its general reserve and of the amount of issued permanent shares is equal to at least 4% of its liabilities.

83. Preferred shares are transferable among members, including auxiliary members, where permitted by the by-law of the credit union.

Preferred shares may be transferred to third persons if they have been given as security by a member or an auxiliary member. They may be subsequently transferred only to the members of the credit union which has issued them, and to the auxiliary members where permitted by the by-law of the credit union.

84. The credit union shall issue certificates attesting the issue of preferred shares. Each certificate shall indicate the par value of the share, the preferences, rights and restrictions attached to it and any special condition applicable to its redemption, purchase or transfer.

85. No preferred share shall entitle its holder to obtain, in the event of the winding-up, insolvency or dissolution of the credit union, any payment for his shares before the deposits and other liabilities of the credit union have been paid. However, preferred shares have priority over qualifying shares and permanent shares.

86. Except in the event of the death of its holder or of the winding-up, insolvency or dissolution of the credit union, no preferred share may be redeemed at the request of its holder before the expiry of a period of five years from its issue. However, the credit union may, at its option, redeem all or part of the shares it has issued, before the expiry of the stipulated term.

87. Except in case of death, a credit union may purchase or redeem the preferred shares it has issued only so far as such purchase or redemption does not cause its capital base or, as the case may be, that of the federation with which it is affiliated to fall to a level that is lower than the level required under this Act.

88. Every redemption or purchase must be authorized by the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, by the Inspector General.

89. The interest payable on preferred shares shall be determined by the board of directors within the limits prescribed by by-law of the credit union, but shall in no case exceed the maximum rate prescribed by by-law of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated. Where the federation is affiliated with a confederation, the maximum rate is determined by by-law of the confederation.

CHAPTER XI

GENERAL PROVISIONS

90. To be a member of a credit union, a person or a partnership must

(1) have his or its domicile, a residence, a place of business or regular work in the territory of the credit union or belong to the group described in the articles of incorporation;

(2) except in the case of a founder, apply for membership;

(3) subscribe and pay for the number of qualifying shares prescribed by by-law of the credit union or, in the absence of such a by-law, one qualifying share;

(4) undertake to comply with the by-laws of the credit union;

(5) except in the case of a founder, be admitted by the board of directors or by a person authorized by it.

91. A credit union shall establish by by-law one or more classes of auxiliary members and determine conditions for their admission, their rights and obligations and criteria or conditions relating to their withdrawal, suspension or expulsion.

92. Any person or partnership who or which does not meet the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of section 90 may be admitted as an auxiliary member.

Any member who ceases to meet the conditions set out in paragraph 1 of section 90 becomes an auxiliary member. If he is an officer of the credit union, he may continue nevertheless to exercise his duties until the expiry of his term of office.

93. Auxiliary members may attend meetings; however, they are neither entitled to vote nor eligible to hold any office within the credit union.

94. Minors may, without the authorization or intervention of anyone, subscribe for qualifying shares in a credit union, make deposits and withdraw the earnings and principal. However, they shall be admitted only as auxiliary members.

95. The by-laws of a credit union may provide for the admission of dignitaries or honorary members. Patrons or honorary members may attend meetings; however, they are neither entitled to vote nor eligible to hold any office within the credit union, nor are they entitled to any benefit afforded to members by the credit union.

DIVISION II

WITHDRAWAL, SUSPENSION AND EXPULSION

96. A member may withdraw from membership by requesting the repayment of his qualifying shares and the withdrawal of his savings.

The withdrawal of a member becomes effective upon the total repayment of his qualifying shares and the total payment of his savings.

97. The board of directors, after informing a member of the grounds invoked for his suspension or expulsion and giving him an opportunity to be heard, may suspend or expel him if

- (1) he does not comply with the by-laws of the credit union;
- (2) he fails to fulfil his undertakings toward the credit union;
- (3) on two or more occasions, he presents or issues a cheque without sufficient funds;
- (4) despite a notice from the credit union, he allows a savings account to remain overdrawn.

98. The minutes of the meeting of the board of directors at which a member is suspended or expelled must set forth the facts which justify the decision.

Within 15 days after the decision, the credit union shall transmit to the member, by registered or certified mail, a notice of his suspension or expulsion, giving the reasons therefor.

99. No member may be suspended for more than six months.

100. The suspension or expulsion of a member takes effect upon the adoption of the resolution of the board of directors.

101. A member who has been suspended or expelled or whose withdrawal has taken effect loses the right to receive notice of to attend or to vote at meetings of the credit union and to hold any office within the credit union.

However, a suspended member loses those rights only for the duration of the suspension.

CHAPTER XII

GENERAL MEETING OF THE MEMBERS

GENERAL PROVISIONS

102. The members of a credit union constitute its general meeting, whether convened at an annual meeting or a special meeting.

103. Only a legal person, including a partnership, that is a member of a credit union may be represented at a general meeting.

No person may represent more than one legal person.

104. Unless otherwise prescribed by by-law, notice of a general meeting must be sent by regular mail to the members at their last address recorded in the registers of the credit union, not less than 10 nor more than 45 days before the date fixed for the meeting.

The notice shall state the place, date and time of the meeting and the matters to be considered. Where applicable, it shall be accompanied with a copy or summary of any draft by-law appearing on the agenda.

105. A member may waive notice of a general meeting. His mere attendance at a meeting is a waiver except where he attends for the express purpose of objecting to the holding of the meeting on the ground that notice of the meeting was not given or was given irregularly.

106. Unless otherwise prescribed by by-law, the members attending a general meeting constitute a quorum.

If the quorum fixed by by-law is not reached at two successive meetings, the second meeting may be lawfully held.

107. No member is entitled to more than one vote, regardless of the number of shares held.

108. A person who has been a member for less than 90 days is not entitled to vote at a general meeting.

109. Decisions are taken by the majority of the votes cast by the members present. In case of a tie, the chairman of the meeting has a casting vote. However, at the election of a director, or of a member of the board of supervision or of the credit committee, the presiding officer has the casting vote.

110. By-laws of the credit union are adopted at the general meeting by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast by the members present.

111. Resolutions in writing signed by all the members have the same force as if they had been passed at a general meeting.

The resolutions shall be kept with the minutes of the general meetings.

ANNUAL MEETING

112. The annual meeting of a credit union shall be held within four months from the end of its fiscal year. The members shall be convened to

- (1) examine the annual report;
- (2) decide upon the allocation of the annual surplus earnings;
- (3) elect the members of the board of directors, credit committee and board of supervision;
- (4) appoint an auditor where this Act so requires;
- (5) determine the interest payable on permanent shares, if any;
- (6) make any decision reserved for the general meeting by this Act.

SPECIAL MEETINGS

113. The board of directors, the board of supervision, the president or the vice-president of the credit union or the board of directors of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated may order that a special meeting be held whenever it or he deems it expedient.

114. The board of directors must hold a special meeting upon the requisition of 100 members of the credit union if it has 300 or more members or of one-third of the members if it has less than 300.

The board of directors must also hold a special meeting if two vacancies occur on the board of supervision.

115. Special meetings are called by the secretary of the credit union. If the secretary is unable or refuses to act, the president of the credit union shall call the meeting.

116. If the meeting is not called within 30 days of the requisition made by the federation or the members, the federation or, as the case may be, two members who have signed the requisition, may call the meeting.

Unless the members object thereto by resolution at the meeting, the credit union shall reimburse those who called the meeting for reasonable expenses incurred by them to hold the meeting.

117. Only the matters specified in the notice of meeting may be considered or decided at a special meeting.

CHAPTER XIII

MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

DIVISION I

PROVISIONS COMMON TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS, THE CREDIT COMMITTEE AND THE BOARD OF SUPERVISION

118. Apart from the general meeting, the organs of a credit union are the board of directors, the credit committee and the board of supervision.

119. The term of office of the members of the board of directors, of the credit committee and of the board of supervision is three years.

The credit union must determine by by-law a mode of rotation so that one-third of the members of each of those organs, to the nearest whole number, are replaced each year.

The credit union may, for the purposes of this section, shorten the term of office of the members elected at the organization meeting or elected following an increase in the number of members of those organs.

120. At the end of his term of office, a member shall remain in office until he is reelected or replaced.

121. A decrease in the number of members does not end the term of those who remain in office.

122. A member may resign from office by giving notice to that effect.

123. A member may be dismissed at a special meeting only by those members of the credit union having the right to elect a director and only if he has been informed in writing, within the same advance time as that prescribed for calling the meeting, of the grounds for his dismissal and of the place, date and time of the meeting.

The member may give, in a written statement read by the chairman of the meeting, the grounds for his opposition to his dismissal. He may also address the meeting.

124. Where the director general of a credit union, who may also be a member of its board of directors, is dismissed, he thereby becomes disqualified from sitting as a member of the board of directors, the credit committee or the board of supervision of the credit union for a period of five years from his dismissal.

125. The minutes of the meeting at which a member is dismissed must state the facts which justify the decision.

The credit union, within 15 days of the decision, shall send to the member, by registered or certified mail, a notice of his dismissal, stating the reasons therefor. The credit union shall also send, within the same time, a copy of such notice to the federation with which it is affiliated.

126. A vacancy resulting from the dismissal of a member may be filled during the meeting at which the dismissal takes place provided that the notice of the meeting mention that such an election may be held.

127. The members are not remunerated. They are nonetheless entitled to reimbursement of reasonable expenses incurred by them in carrying out their duties.

128. Subject to the by-laws of the credit union, the members may, if they all consent, participate in a meeting by any means of communication, such as the telephone, which permits all persons participating in the meeting to communicate orally with each other. The members are deemed in that case to have attended the meeting.

129. Resolutions in writing signed by all the members who are entitled to vote on such resolutions have the same force as if they had been passed at a meeting.

The resolutions shall be kept with the minutes of the proceedings.

130. A member present at a meeting is deemed to have consented to any resolution passed or action taken at the meeting, except

(1) if, at the meeting, he requests that his dissent be recorded in the minutes;

(2) if, before the meeting is adjourned or closed, he sends his dissent in writing to the secretary of the meeting.

131. A member not present at a meeting is deemed to have consented to any resolution passed or action taken at the meeting unless, within seven days following the date on which he becomes aware of the resolution or action, he sends his dissent by registered or certified mail or delivers it to the head office of the credit union and requests, that it be recorded in the minutes of the next meeting.

DIVISION II

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

132. The affairs of a credit union are managed by the board of directors, subject to any functions devolved upon another organ of the credit union.

The credit union may determine by by-law those powers that the board of directors may exercise only if so authorized by the general meeting.

133. The board of directors shall, in particular,

(1) observe and enforce the by-laws and written instructions of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and, where such is the case, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated;

(2) provide the credit committee and the board of supervision with any personnel they require to carry out their functions;

(3) furnish the Inspector General, at his request, with a certified copy of the by-laws of the credit union;

(4) regulate the keeping and preservation of the registers;

(5) determine the rate of interest on savings and preferred shares, and the rate applicable to any form of credit;

(6) make or control the investments of the credit union;

(7) insure the credit union against the risks of fire, theft, embezzlement by its executive officers or employees, and civil and employer's liability;

(8) designate the persons authorized to sign contracts or other documents on behalf of the credit union;

(9) at the annual meeting, give an account of its management and submit the annual report;

(10) facilitate the work of the persons responsible for the inspection of the credit union, the supervision of its transactions or the audit of its books and accounts.

134. The credit union shall determine, by by-law, the number of directors, which shall not be less than five.

135. For the formation of its board of directors, a credit union may, by by-law, divide its members into groups, or its territory into districts, and grant to each of the groups or districts the right to elect a certain number of directors.

136. Every natural person who is a member of the credit union or who represents a legal person, including a partnership, that is a member of the credit union, may be a director, except

(1) a member or the representative of a member who has been a member for less than 90 days, unless he is a founder;

(2) an employee of the credit union other than the director general or an employee of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or of a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation or confederation;

(3) a member of the credit committee or board of supervision of the credit union;

(4) an officer within the meaning of section 187 or employee of another credit union;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

137. In the event of vacancy, the directors may appoint a replacement for the unexpired portion of the term of office. If they fail to do so before the next general meeting, the general meeting may fill the vacancy.

138. Every director who resigns for reasons relating to the conduct of the affairs of the credit union and has grounds to believe that such conduct is in contravention of a provision of this Act, a government regulation thereunder, a provision of any other Act or an order or written instruction of the Inspector General, shall declare his reasons to the credit union by means of a written statement to the chairman of the board of supervision and shall send a copy to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case.

He shall also make such a declaration where he believes that such conduct of the affairs of the credit union will adversely affect its financial position.

A director who in good faith makes such a declaration shall not incur thereby any civil liability.

139. Where the number of directors remaining in office does not constitute a quorum, a director, two members of the credit union, a member of the board of supervision or the board of directors of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated may order the secretary of the credit union to call a special meeting to fill the vacancy.

If the secretary fails to act, the meeting may be called by the persons who ordered the holding of the meeting. Unless the members object thereto by resolution at the meeting, the credit union shall reimburse those who called the meeting for reasonable expenses incurred by them to hold the meeting.

140. Within 30 days after a change is made among the directors of the board of directors, the credit union shall give notice of the change to the Inspector General, together with a list containing the surname, given name, address and occupation of each director.

141. At its first meeting after the organization meeting and, subsequently, after every annual meeting, the board of directors shall choose from among its members a chairman, a vice-chairman and a secretary who shall be the president, vice-president and secretary of the credit union.

142. The board of directors shall also appoint for an indefinite period a director general or manager, whom it may choose or not from among its members.

143. The board of directors may appoint from among its members or from among non-members any other officer required for its proper operation and also an assistant-secretary to exercise the powers of the secretary whenever the latter is unable or refuses to act.

144. The powers and duties of the president, vice-president and secretary shall be determined by by-law of the credit union.

145. If the president is unable to act, the vice-president shall replace him.

146. The director general shall not be the president or vice-president of the credit union although he may simultaneously hold the office of director general and that of secretary.

147. The director general shall perform his duties under the direction of the board of directors. His powers and duties are determined by by-law of the credit union.

The board of directors shall determine the remuneration of the director general.

148. A director general who is not a member of the board of directors is entitled to be convened to, attend and address the meetings of the board; he must, however, withdraw from a meeting at the request of the majority of the directors who are present.

A director or director general shall also withdraw from any meeting at which his conditions of employment are being discussed.

149. The board of directors shall meet at the call of the president or two directors. Unless otherwise provided in the by-laws of the credit union, meetings are called by written notice at least five days before the date scheduled for the meeting.

150. The board of directors of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated may call a meeting of the board of directors of the credit union. A representative of the federation may attend and address the meeting.

151. Every director may in writing waive notice of a meeting of the board of directors. His mere attendance at a meeting is a waiver except where he attends for the express purpose of objecting to the holding of the meeting on the ground that notice of the meeting was not given or was given irregularly.

152. Unless otherwise provided in the by-laws of the credit union, a majority of the directors constitutes a quorum at meetings of the board of directors.

153. The decisions of the board of directors are taken by a majority vote of the directors present. In case of a tie, the chairman of the meeting has a casting vote.

DIVISION III

CREDIT COMMITTEE

154. The functions of the credit committee are

(1) to authorize any credit granted by the credit union;

(2) to authorize the signing of releases, discharges or waivers of priority and applications for cancellation under article 2157*b* of the Civil Code of Lower Canada.

155. Every credit union may determine, by by-law, the extent, limits and conditions of the powers of its credit committee.

Every by-law of a credit union pertaining to the credit committee shall be submitted for approval to the federation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Inspector General.

156. The credit committee may, on the conditions it determines, authorize the director general or any other person who may be designated by the board of directors, to exercise all or part of its powers.

The credit committee cannot, however, in the case of transactions with restricted parties, delegate its powers to authorize credit.

The board of directors shall exercise the powers of the credit committee where, on a given subject, a quorum cannot be reached because of a conflict of interest involving one of its members.

157. A member of a credit union whose application for credit has been refused may appeal from the decision to the board of directors.

After giving the member an opportunity to be heard, the board of directors shall decide the appeal in accordance with the by-laws of the credit union.

The board of directors may confirm, amend or quash the decision appealed from and make any decision which, in its opinion, should have been made in the first instance.

158. The credit committee shall consist of three or five members, according as the by-laws of the credit union prescribe.

159. Every natural person who is a member of the credit union or who represents a legal person, including a partnership, that is a member of the credit union, may be a member of the credit committee, except

(1) a member or the representative of a member who has been a member for less than 90 days, unless he is a founder;

(2) an employee of the credit union, of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or of a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation or confederation;

(3) a director or a member of the board of supervision of the credit union;

(4) an officer within the meaning of section 187 or an employee of another credit union;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

160. In the event of vacancy, the members of the credit committee may appoint a replacement for the unexpired portion of the term of office. If they fail to do so before the next general meeting, the general meeting may fill the vacancy.

If, due to vacancies, a quorum cannot be reached, a member of the credit committee, a director, two members of the credit union or a member of the board of supervision or the board of directors of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated may order the secretary of the credit union to call a special meeting to fill the vacancies.

If the secretary fails to act, the meeting may be called by the persons who ordered the holding of the meeting. Unless the members object thereto by resolution at the meeting, the credit union shall reimburse those who called the meeting for reasonable expenses incurred by them to hold the meeting.

161. Every member of the credit committee who resigns for reasons relating to the conduct of the affairs of the credit union and has grounds to believe that such conduct is in contravention of a provision of this Act, a government regulation thereunder, a provision of any other Act or an order or written instruction of the Inspector General, shall declare his reasons to the credit union by means of a written statement to the chairman of the board of supervision and shall send a copy to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case, or if it is not affiliated, to the Inspector General.

He shall also make such a declaration where he believes that such conduct of the affairs of the credit union will adversely affect its financial position.

A member who in good faith makes such a declaration shall not incur thereby any civil liability.

162. At its first meeting after the organization meeting and, subsequently, after every annual meeting, the credit committee shall choose a chairman from among its members.

The credit committee shall also appoint a secretary whom it may choose or not from among its members. Where the credit committee fails to appoint a secretary, the director general shall perform the duties of the secretary.

163. The credit committee may in addition appoint an assistant-secretary to exercise the powers of the secretary where the secretary is unable or refuses to act.

164. A majority of the members constitutes a quorum at meetings of the credit committee.

165. The resolutions of the credit committee must be adopted by the unanimous vote of the members present at a meeting.

166. The director general of the credit union and any other person empowered to authorize credit may attend and address the meetings of the credit committee.

167. The credit committee shall submit a report of its activities to the board of directors at the end of the fiscal year and shall present it to the annual meeting.

DIVISION IV

BOARD OF SUPERVISION

168. The function of the board of supervision is to supervise the operations of the credit union.

The board of supervision shall ensure, in particular, that

- (1) an audit of the cash in hand and all other assets is carried out;
- (2) the operations of the credit union are in compliance with this Act and the regulations or by-laws applicable to it under this Act;
- (3) the internal affairs and activities of the credit union are inspected in accordance with the provisions of this Act;
- (4) the credit union complies with the orders of the Inspector General, his written instructions as well as those of the federation with which it is affiliated and those of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case;
- (5) the rules adopted by the ethics committee which are applicable to the credit union are observed.

169. The board of supervision shall, in addition to its main function, receive any complaints from the members, including auxiliary members where permitted by the by-laws of the credit union, inform the other organs if need be and reply to the author of the complaint.

Any complainant unsatisfied with the board's reply may file his complaint with the federation with which the credit union of which he is a member is affiliated or he may file his complaint with the confederation with which the federation is affiliated if he remains unsatisfied with the reply of the federation.

The federation or confederation, as the case may be, may make recommendations to the credit union in connection with the complaint filed with it.

170. The board of supervision of an unaffiliated credit union shall also assume the functions of the ethics committee set out in sections 355 and 357, adapted as required.

The rules adopted by the board of supervision for the protection of the interests of the credit union and its members shall be submitted for approval to the board of directors of the credit union. The credit union shall transmit a copy of the rules to the Inspector General within 30 days of their approval.

171. The board of supervision shall consist of three members.

172. Every natural person who is a member of the credit union or who represents a legal person, including a partnership, that is a member of the credit union, may be a member of the board of supervision, except

(1) a member or a representative of a member who has been a member for less than 90 days, unless he is a founder;

(2) an employee of the credit union, of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or of a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation or confederation;

(3) a director or a member of the credit committee of the credit union;

(4) an officer within the meaning of section 187 or an employee of another credit union;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

173. In the event of vacancy, the members of the board of supervision may appoint a replacement for the unexpired portion of the term of office. If they fail to do so before the next general meeting, the general meeting may fill the vacancy.

If, due to vacancies, a quorum cannot be reached, a member of the board of supervision, a director, two members of the credit union or the board of directors of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated may order the secretary of the credit union to call a special meeting to fill the vacancies.

If the secretary fails to act, the meeting may be called by the persons who ordered the holding of the meeting. Unless the members object thereto by resolution at the meeting, the credit union shall reimburse those who called the meeting for reasonable expenses incurred by them to hold the meeting.

174. Where a member of the board of supervision resigns, he shall send to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, a copy of the notice he addresses to the credit union.

175. At its first meeting after the organization meeting and, subsequently, after every annual meeting, the board of supervision shall choose a chairman and a secretary from among its members.

176. Two members constitute a quorum at meetings of the board of supervision.

177. The board of supervision has access to the books, records, accounts and any other document of the credit union, and every person having custody of them must facilitate its examination of them. It may require the officers and employees of the credit union to furnish any document or information necessary for the carrying out of its functions.

178. The board of supervision may, where it considers it necessary, require that a special inspection be carried out.

179. The board of supervision may suspend any employee of the credit union or any member of the credit committee by giving him a notice of at least three clear days, indicating the grounds for the decision, the date on which it becomes effective and his right to be heard. Where the board of supervision is of the opinion that any delay could seriously compromise the interests of the members of the credit union, it may render its decision without giving the person advance notice or an opportunity to be heard.

Within five days following the suspension, the board of supervision shall notify, in writing, the board of directors and the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

180. The board of supervision shall report its findings to the board of directors and to the credit committee and may, if it considers it appropriate, make recommendations to them.

The board of supervision shall also report its findings to the ethics committee of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated. The ethics committee shall also be notified, within 10 days, of any cases where the rules of ethics it adopted were not observed.

181. The board of supervision shall notify, in writing, the board of directors and the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case, if

(1) in its opinion, the credit union is contravening a provision of this Act or the regulations or by-laws applicable to it under this Act, where such contravention relates to the operations of the credit union and might have an adverse effect on its financial position;

(2) it discovers financial or administrative practices which might have an adverse effect on the financial position of the credit union;

(3) it observes that the credit union is not complying with the orders or written instructions of the Inspector General or of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

Upon receipt of the notice, the federation shall send a copy of it to the confederation with which it is affiliated.

The board of supervision shall notify the Inspector General where, in its opinion, the board of directors and the federation are neglecting to take, as soon as possible under the circumstances, the necessary measures to remedy the situation identified in the notice.

182. Upon receipt of the periodical inspection report, the board of supervision shall submit its recommendations to the board of directors and may call a special meeting to lay any matter brought up in the report before the members.

183. The board of supervision shall submit a report of its activities to the board of directors at the end of the fiscal year of the credit union and shall present it to the annual meeting.

DIVISION V

SPECIAL COMMITTEES

184. To facilitate the proper operation of the credit union, the board of directors may form special committees, composed of members of the credit union, and determine their powers and duties.

The general meeting may require the formation of special committees.

185. No employee of the credit union except the director general may be a member of a special committee.

186. The special committees shall exercise their powers and duties under the direction of the board of directors.

OFFICERS

187. The president, vice-president, secretary, assistant-secretary and director general of a credit union are the officers of that credit union.

The members of the board of directors, of the credit committee and of the board of supervision and any other person appointed as such by the board of directors of the credit union are also officers of the credit union.

188. Every employee authorized to extend credit is subject to the same rules as an officer in matters pertaining to conflicts of interest.

189. The officers of a credit union are deemed to be the mandataries of the credit union.

190. The board of directors shall furnish to the Inspector General the surname, given name, address and occupation of each of the officers of the credit union within 30 days following their election or appointment.

191. Every officer of a credit union shall in performing his duties act within the limits of the powers conferred on him.

He shall comply with this Act, the government regulations thereunder, the orders and written instructions of the Inspector General, the articles and by-laws of the credit union as well as the written instructions and by-laws of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

192. Every officer of a credit union shall exercise the care, prudence and diligence that a reasonable person would exercise in comparable circumstances.

He shall also act with honesty and fairness in the best interest of the credit union and in view of its objects. In so doing, he shall take into account the interests of the members and avoid placing himself in situations where his personal interest is in conflict with his obligations.

193. An officer of a credit union is presumed to have exercised the care, prudence and diligence that a reasonable person would exercise in comparable circumstances if he acted in good faith and based his decisions on an expert's opinion or report.

194. No officer may communicate information concerning the credit union or its members except to the extent determined by the rules adopted by the ethics committee or, as the case may be, by the board of supervision, and by government regulations.

195. Every credit union shall assume the defence of any of its officers who is prosecuted by a third person for an act done in the performance of his duties and shall pay damages, if any, resulting from that act, unless he has committed a grievous offence or a personal offence separable from the performance of his duties.

In penal or criminal proceedings, however, the credit union shall assume payment of the expenses of its officer only where he had reasonable grounds to believe that his conduct was in conformity with the law, or if he has been freed or acquitted or if the proceedings have been withdrawn or dismissed.

196. Every credit union shall assume the expenses of any of its officers whom it prosecutes for an act done in the performance of his duties, if it loses its case and the court so decides.

If the credit union wins its case only in part, the court may determine the amount of the expenses it shall assume.

197. Every credit union shall assume its obligations under sections 195 and 196 in respect of any person who acted at its request as director or officer of a legal person of which it is a shareholder or a creditor.

198. The officers of a credit union who authorize the purchase or redemption of shares in contravention of this Act or a government regulation thereunder are jointly liable for the payment of any sum disbursed by the credit union for the purchase or redemption.

199. The officers of a credit union who authorize any investment or credit in contravention of this Act or the regulations and by-laws that are applicable to it under this Act are jointly liable for any resulting losses to the credit union.

200. Every person who accepts a deposit in contravention of section 241 or who extends credit in contravention of section 250 is liable for the sums lost by the credit union by reason of the more favourable terms granted.

201. Any right of action arising from section 198, 199 or 200 is prescribed by two years from the date on which the board of supervision becomes aware of the alleged act.

202. Any right of action arising from section 198, 199 or 200 may be exercised by

- (1) the credit union;
- (2) the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, in its capacity as mandatary of the credit union, if the credit union has neglected to exercise such right of action after having been formally notified to do so by the federation;
- (3) the Inspector General, if the federation with which the credit union is affiliated neglects to act following the service of the formal notice mentioned in subparagraph 2;
- (4) the Inspector General, if the credit union is not affiliated with a federation and has neglected to exercise such right of action after having been formally notified to do so by the Inspector General.

Where a federation serves a formal notice in accordance with subparagraph 2, it must, at the same time, transmit a copy to the Inspector General.

203. The mere fact that a form of investment or credit is consistent with this Act and the government regulations thereunder does not release any officer of the credit union from obligations otherwise incumbent upon him.

204. A credit union may purchase liability insurance for the benefit of an officer or a person acting at its request as a director or officer of a legal person of which the credit union is a shareholder or creditor, to cover any liability that may be incurred by such persons when acting as such, except any liability resulting from a failure to act with honesty and fairness.

205. Every officer of a credit union must, within three months of his appointment or election and, subsequently, every year, disclose to the board of directors of the credit union, in writing and under oath, any interest held by him in any enterprise.

No officer may discharge the duties of his office until he has fulfilled his obligation under this section.

However, no officer shall be required to disclose any interest representing less than 10% of the shares issued by a legal person or less than 10% of the voting rights attached to such shares.

206. Every officer whose interest in an enterprise comes into conflict with that of the credit union must, on pain of dismissal, disclose his interest, abstain from voting on any matter related to the enterprise in which he has an interest, and avoid influencing any decision relating thereto. He must also withdraw from the meeting while the matters concerning the enterprise in which he has such an interest are being discussed.

207. Moreover, no officer of a credit union may, on pain of dismissal, make any decision concerning any form of credit intended for him or any decision concerning a person who is his associate, or be present during the deliberations of a meeting or participate in decisions relating thereto.

208. A person is an associate of an officer of a credit union where that person is

(1) the spouse, minor child or the minor child of the spouse of the officer;

(2) the partner of the officer, or a partnership in which the officer is a partner;

(3) a legal person controlled by the officer or by his spouse, his minor child or the minor child of his spouse, individually or jointly;

(4) a legal person in which the officer holds 10% or more of the voting rights attached to the shares issued by it or 10% or more of such shares.

209. "Spouse" means a person who

(1) is married and cohabits with the person to whom he is married;

(2) is living with another person in a conjugal relationship outside marriage and has been living with that person for at least one year.

210. An officer who is dismissed for having contravened section 206 or 207 also ceases to be qualified to sit as member of the board of directors, of the credit committee and of the board of supervision of any credit union for a period of five years from his dismissal.

CHAPTER XIV

GENERAL PROVISIONS

211. Every credit union has the full enjoyment of civil rights in the pursuance of its objects.

A credit union may engage in and carry on with any person such business as may be useful to ensure its proper operation and the attainment of its objects.

212. The cooperative activities of a credit union which are revenue producing activities, shall be restricted to its members, subject to the exceptions set out in this Act.

Such activities are deemed not to constitute the carrying on of trade or a means of earning a profit.

213. A credit union may

(1) receive deposits from a federation, a confederation or La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec;

(2) with the authorization of the federation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, with the authorization of the Inspector General, receive deposits from or extend credit to another credit union;

(3) receive deposits from or extend credit to the Government of Québec or of Canada, a municipality or a school board in Québec, and their mandataries;

(4) sell bonds or other debt securities issued or guaranteed by the Government of Québec or of Canada, a municipality or a school board in Québec;

(5) act, according to law, as a securities dealer for the distribution of permanent shares and preferred shares issued by it and for the distribution of the securities of a holding company controlled by the confederation with which the federation of which the credit union is a member is affiliated, where that is the case;

(6) issue, endorse, accept and discount promissory notes, bills of exchange, drafts and other negotiable instruments and receive deposits transferable by order to third persons;

(7) offer cash management, electronic cash command and factoring services;

(8) transfer to another credit union or federation or cause another credit union or federation to transfer to it claims resulting from loans granted by the transferring credit union or federation;

(9) acquire and sell traveller's cheques;

(10) provide or offer payment card and credit card services;

(11) offer and administer savings plans which must be registered pursuant to the Taxation Act (R.S.Q., chapter I-3) or the Income Tax Act (S.C., 1970-71-72, chapter 63).

214. A credit union may in addition

(1) receive the payment of tax accounts and electricity, gas and telephone bills and other public utility accounts;

(2) with the authorization of the Minister, issue registration plates for motor vehicles;

(3) engage in the sale of lottery tickets and urban transport tickets;

(4) subscribe for shares in a cooperative and benefit from its services;

(5) subscribe or guarantee, out of a social or community fund, funds for promotional and educational purposes relating to cooperative or for charitable, benevolent, educational or artistic purposes;

(6) establish, in accordance with the Act respecting supplemental pension plans (R.S.Q., chapter R-17), a pension plan for the benefit of its employees and their spouses or dependants, or join any such plan established by another credit union affiliated with the federation of which it is member or a plan established by that federation or the confederation with which the federation is affiliated.

215. The Government may, after obtaining the advice of the Minister, authorize a credit union, a specific group of credit unions or all the credit unions subject to this Act to carry on any other activity it considers expedient in the interest of the public or of the members.

At least 45 days before making an order to that effect, the Government shall publish a notice of intention in the Gazette officielle du Québec. An order made under the first paragraph becomes effective 15 days after its publication in the Gazette officielle du Québec or on any later date indicated in the notice.

216. A credit union shall, in respect of restricted parties and persons associated with any of its officers and with whom it does business, act in the same manner as when it is dealing at arm's length.

217. A person is a restricted party with respect to a credit union where that person is

(1) an officer of the credit union, of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated;

(2) a director or officer of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec, where the credit union is affiliated with a federation that is affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec;

(3) a legal person having a majority of directors and officers who are officers of a legal person referred to in paragraph 1;

(4) the auditor of a credit union, a partner of the auditor and any employee of the auditing service of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case, who is assigned to the audit of the credit union and who is responsible for the audit report;

(5) a shareholder holding 10% or more of the voting rights attached to the shares issued by a legal person controlled by a confederation belonging to the same group as the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or 10% or more of such shares;

(6) a credit union or a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and, where applicable, La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec;

(7) a legal person controlled by one or several persons referred to in paragraph 1 or 2;

(8) any other person whose interests in or dealings with a credit union might, in the opinion of the Inspector General, influence the investments or transactions that may be made by that credit union.

218. Where the Inspector General designates a person as being a restricted party, he shall notify his decision to the person he so designates and to the credit union concerned by his decision.

The Inspector General may revise his decision at the request of the person so designated or of the credit union concerned.

Before rendering his decision or refusing to revise his decision, the Inspector General shall give the person and the credit union concerned an opportunity to be heard.

219. All transactions of a credit union with restricted parties or with a person who is an associate of an officer of the credit union must be consistent with the rules adopted by the ethics committee or the board of supervision, as the case may be, and with the provisions of this Act.

220. Every transaction by a credit union to acquire securities issued by a restricted party or to transfer assets to or from a credit union and a restricted party must be approved by the board of directors of the credit union after it has obtained the advice of the board of supervision.

No bad debts, unproductive assets or assets repossessed from a debtor in default may be transferred to a credit union except in the case of a transfer of assets en bloc authorized by the Inspector General as part of a reorganization or where the transfer is a condition inherent in a contract entered into under paragraph 8 of section 213 or paragraph 11 of section 364.

221. Every service contract between a credit union and a restricted party must be made on favourable terms for the credit union or, if not, on competitive terms.

Every such contract must be approved by the board of directors of the credit union after it has obtained the advice of the board of supervision, unless it involves only minimal amounts.

In cases of contestation, the onus is on the credit union to show that the service contract to which it is a party meets the prescribed requirements.

The Minister may, after he has obtained the advice of the Inspector General, exempt a service contract between a credit union and a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation with which the credit union is affiliated from compliance with the first paragraph where the main activity of the legal person consists in offering services relating to the ordinary business of a credit union.

222. The Inspector General or any person having a sufficient interest may apply to the court for the cancellation of a transaction with a restricted party or with a person who is an associate of an officer of the credit union made in contravention of the provisions of this Act and which might seriously prejudice the interests of the members of the credit union.

223. A credit union may, to obtain payment of any specific, liquid and exigible claim it has against a member or depositor, withhold any sum of money it owes to him and use it to compensate its claim except in the case of the redemption of qualifying shares issued by it.

224. Persons doing business with a credit union are not presumed to have knowledge of the contents of a document concerning a credit union by reason only that the document has been registered or is available for examination in accordance with this Act.

225. Persons doing business with a credit union may presume that

(1) the credit union is pursuing its objects and exercising its powers in accordance with its articles and by-laws;

(2) the documents transmitted to the Minister or the Inspector General and registered under this Act contain true information;

(3) the officers of the credit union are validly holding office and lawfully exercising the powers arising therefrom;

(4) the documents of the credit union which purport to be from an officer are valid and binding on the credit union.

226. Sections 224 and 225 do not apply to persons in bad faith or to persons who ought to have had knowledge of the situation by virtue of their position within or their dealings with the credit union.

CAPITAL BASE

227. Every credit union not affiliated with a federation must maintain a capital base equal to at least 5% of its total liabilities. The Inspector General may reduce or increase such percentage where he deems it necessary.

Before exercising his power under the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

228. The capital base of a credit union not affiliated with a federation shall include

- (1) its general reserve;
- (2) its stabilization reserve;
- (3) its qualifying shares and permanent shares;
- (4) its preferred shares, up to 1% of its liabilities; and
- (5) any other asset prescribed by regulation of the Government.

229. For the purposes of section 227, the liabilities of a credit union not affiliated with a federation shall consist of the deposits, loans, accrued and outstanding interest on deposits and loans and any other liability prescribed by regulation of the Government.

230. The capital base of a credit union not affiliated with a federation shall be reduced by the amount of any investment or credit that is not in compliance with this Act unless it was made or extended before (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) and as long as it is recognized as an asset by the Inspector General on the conditions he determines.

231. Where the Inspector General considers that the capital base of a credit union not affiliated with a federation is below the level applicable to it or where he is of the opinion that its capital base is inadequate in view of its operations, he may order the credit union to adopt a compliance program within the time he prescribes and for the reasons he indicates.

Before exercising the power set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

232. The compliance program shall describe the appropriate measures to be implemented by the credit union not affiliated with a federation to ensure the adequacy of its capital base, within the time limits indicated therein.

233. The compliance program adopted by a credit union not affiliated with a federation must be submitted for approval to the Inspector General who may approve it with or without amendment.

234. Where a credit union not affiliated with a federation fails to comply with the order of the Inspector General, the Inspector General may establish such compliance program as he deems appropriate.

235. A credit union not affiliated with a federation is bound to implement the compliance program approved or established by the Inspector General.

236. Where a credit union not affiliated with a federation is required to implement a compliance program, it must furnish to the Inspector General any report he may require on the implementation of the program at such intervals, in such form and of such tenor as he may determine.

237. The credit union shall cease to solicit or receive deposits for as long as it has failed

(1) to adopt a compliance program;

(2) to implement a compliance program;

(3) to furnish to the Inspector General such report as he may require on the implementation of a compliance program.

238. The Inspector General may, while a compliance program is in effect, give the unaffiliated credit union affected by the program any written instructions he deems appropriate with respect to the powers exercised by its credit committee.

Before exercising the power set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

239. Every credit union shall comply with the by-laws of the federation with which it is affiliated with respect to the adequacy of its capital base. The by-law of the federation must be submitted for approval to the confederation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Government.

DEPOSITS

240. Every credit union may, without the authority or intervention of any other person, receive deposits of money from any person whatever his age, legal status or civil status and whether or not he has the legal capacity to contract.

241. No credit union may accept deposits from its employees, a restricted party or a person who is an associate of any of its officers on more favourable terms than those applicable by it in the ordinary course of business.

242. A credit union is not bound to see to the execution of any trust to which a deposit is subject.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the credit union is notified of the existence of a trust to which a deposit standing in the names of two or more persons is subject, the only valid discharge is the receipt or cheque of all such persons or of those among them who, under the deed or Act creating the trust, may be entitled to receive the sums payable in respect of the deposit.

243. Any deposit in respect of which no transaction has taken place and no statement of account has been requested or acknowledged by the depositor for a period of seven years is an inactive account.

The amount of every cheque, draft or bill of exchange issued, certified or accepted by a credit union and in respect of which no payment has been made for a period of seven years from its date of issue, certification or acceptance is considered to be an inactive account.

244. Every credit union shall send by registered or certified mail to each person to whom a deposit referred to in section 243 is repayable or to whom or at whose request an instrument referred to in the said section has been issued, certified or accepted, to his last recorded address, a notice stating that the account is inactive and that the balance of the account and the interest thereon will be transferred to the Minister of Finance if not claimed.

The notice must be given at least six months before any transfer is made.

245. At the expiry of the six months, the credit union shall transfer to the Minister of Finance the sums of money it owes on an inactive account, including the interest thereon.

246. All sums of money from inactive accounts transferred to the Minister of Finance shall be paid into the consolidated revenue fund.

Any person entitled to such sums of money may require that the sums be returned to him by asserting his claim, and prescription shall not be invoked against him. The Minister of Finance is authorized to pay the necessary sums of money out of the consolidated revenue fund.

247. Every credit union shall keep an up to date list of the surname, given name and last recorded address of every person whose account is inactive and post it on its premises. A copy of the list must be transmitted to the Minister of Finance with the transfer of any sum of money from an inactive account.

CREDIT

248. Every credit union may, in accordance with this Act and, where applicable, the regulations of the Government or the by-laws of the federation with which it is affiliated, extend credit, particularly by way of

- (1) loans, lines of credit or advances, with or without security, leasing, loans granted or acquired by the credit union on the security of conditional sales agreements and the acquisition by the credit union
- (2) the discount of a negotiable instrument;
- (3) guarantees of payment or repayment of fixed sums of money.

249. No credit union may extend credit on the security of the shares issued by it or by another credit union, except in the case of renewal of credit so extended before (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) which entails no additional outlay for the credit union.

250. No credit union may extend credit to its employees, a restricted party or a person who is an associate of any of its officers on more favourable terms than those applicable in the ordinary course of business of the credit union.

251. No credit union may extend credit to a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, unless it is authorized by the board of directors after it has obtained the advice of the board of supervision.

252. No credit union may extend credit to any of its officers or to any person who is an associate of any of its officers in a total amount exceeding the annual salary paid by the credit union to the officer if he is remunerated or, if not, the amount determined according to the rules of the ethics committee or the board of supervision, as the case may be, unless the credit is secured by first hypothec on the principal residence of the officer.

253. A credit union which extends credit to a restricted party or to a person who is an associate of any of its officers shall disclose it to its board of supervision and to the ethics committee of the federation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case.

The disclosure must indicate the surname and given name of the restricted party or of the associate, the amount of credit extended, the maturity date, the rate of interest and the security offered.

254. The provisions of sections 251 to 253 do not apply to credit extended to restricted parties or to persons who are the associates of an officer of a credit union by way of a credit card or involving amounts within the limits usually granted to credit card holders.

DIVISION V

INVESTMENTS

255. Every credit union shall exercise the powers to make investments conferred on it by this Act with the prudence and care that a reasonable person would exercise in similar circumstances, and act with honesty and fairness in the best interest of its members and depositors.

256. In addition to credit extended in accordance with this Act and sums deposited with a bank, or with a registered institution within the meaning of the Deposit Insurance Act or in funds referred to in

Chapter VIII of Title III, established by the federation with which it is affiliated, a credit union may make investments in the following property:

(1) bonds or other debt securities issued or guaranteed by the Government of Québec or of Canada, by a municipality or school board in Québec, by the Conseil scolaire de l'île de Montréal, by a fabrique in Québec, or by an ecclesiastical, religious or cemetery corporation in Québec;

(2) bonds or other debt securities issued by a legal person operating a public service in Canada and vested with the right to fix fees attached to the service;

(3) bonds or other debt securities secured by an undertaking to a trustee by the Government of Québec or of Canada to pay sufficient subsidies to pay the interest and principal at their respective maturity dates;

(4) bonds issued by a cooperative governed by the Cooperatives Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-67.2), a federation of such cooperatives or a legal person controlled by such a cooperative or by a federation of such cooperatives

(a) if they are secured by first privilege or hypothec on immovables and their equipment;

(b) if they are secured by first hypothec on immovables in Québec and if the amount of the debt is not more than 75 % of the value of the immovables securing payment thereof; or

(c) if they are secured by first privilege on equipment and if the issuer has paid in full the interest on his other loans during the 10 years preceding the acquisition;

(5) preferred shares or any debt securities other than those described in paragraph 4 issued by a cooperative governed by the Cooperatives Act, a federation of such cooperatives, or a legal person controlled by such a cooperative or by a federation of such cooperatives;

(6) bonds or other debt securities issued by persons other than those described in paragraph 4 and secured by immovables situated in Québec, if the amount of the debt is not more than 75 % of the value of the immovables securing payment thereof, after deducting the other debts secured by the same immovables and ranking equally with or prior to the debt;

(7) immovables securing payment of a debt owing to it, in order to ensure total or partial payment of such debt;

(8) immovables situated in Québec, other than those mentioned in paragraph 7, to the extent that the immovables serve mainly for its own use or are acquired out of the sums allocated to the social fund or community fund.

257. A credit union other than a credit union incorporated for the purpose of offering services to a group may, in addition, with a view to promoting the development of enterprises in its territory, invest in shares or in unsecured debt securities of such enterprises, if credit may be extended to them, within the limits prescribed by by-law of the federation with which it is affiliated. The by-law must be submitted for approval to the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Government.

No credit union shall invest in such an enterprise, however, if another credit union has already invested in the shares or unsecured debt securities of the enterprise.

258. A credit union may acquire one of the non-participating voting shares of any holding company controlled by the confederation with which the federation of which it is a member is affiliated.

A credit union shall not, however, acquire shares issued by a legal person where such shares are already held directly or indirectly by such a holding company.

259. A credit union shall dispose of the shares held by it in a legal person where any such shares are directly or indirectly acquired by the holding company controlled by the confederation with which the federation of which the credit union is a member is affiliated.

The credit union shall dispose of the shares within two years. The two-year period begins to run from the date of acquisition of the shares by the holding company or by the legal person controlled by the holding company.

260. In no case may the aggregate investment of a credit union under paragraph 5 of section 256 or section 257 exceed, on the date of the investment, 2% of its assets.

No such investment may be made if it enables a credit union to acquire, directly or indirectly, by itself or with other credit unions or federations of credit unions, more than 30% of the voting rights attached to the shares of a legal person contemplated therein, or enable it to elect more than one-third of the directors of the said legal person.

261. A credit union shall, within seven years of the date of acquisition or within any extension that may be granted by the Inspector General, sell any immovable acquired to secure the repayment of any sum owed to it.

262. No affiliated credit union may make any investment under paragraph 5 of section 256 or section 257 or make deposits into the investment fund of the federation with which it is affiliated, unless it complies with the by-laws of the federation as to the adequacy of its capital base.

No unaffiliated credit union may make any investment under paragraph 5 of section 256 or section 257 unless its capital base meets the level required under this Act.

SECURITY

263. No credit union may hypothecate, mortgage, pledge or otherwise give as security property held by it, except to secure a loan contracted to meet short term requirements for liquid funds resulting from its operations or to acquire, keep or alter an immovable intended for its own use, or to obtain an advance of money under section 40 of the Deposit Insurance Act (R.S.Q., chapter A-26).

Before giving such security, the credit union must obtain the authorization of the federation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, of the Inspector General.

DIVISION VII

LIQUID ASSETS

264. Every credit union not affiliated with a federation must at all times maintain such liquid assets as are adequate to meet its requirements. The Inspector General may give written instructions to a credit union as to the adequacy and nature of its liquid assets.

Before exercising the power set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

265. Every credit union affiliated with a federation must at all times maintain adequate liquid assets in the form of deposits in the liquidity fund of the federation in accordance with the by-laws of the federation. If the federation is affiliated with a confederation, the credit union must comply with the by-laws of the confederation.

DIVISION VIII

SURPLUS EARNINGS

266. All annual surplus earnings of a credit union shall be allocated to

- (1) the general reserve;
- (2) the payment of interest on permanent shares;
- (3) the establishment and maintenance of a stabilization reserve;
- (4) the allotment of dividends to members, depositors or borrowers, in proportion to the business done with the credit union;
- (5) the establishment and maintenance of a social or community fund, where that is the case.

Surplus earnings shall be allocated by the annual meeting after the members have considered the recommendations of the board of directors and taking into account the statement of results for the preceding fiscal year.

Any allocation of surplus earnings must, in addition, be consistent with the by-laws of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated.

267. The sum of the amounts allocated to the general reserve and the amounts corresponding to the permanent shares and qualifying shares issued by a credit union not affiliated with a federation must represent at least 4% of its liabilities.

268. In no case may the general reserve be apportioned among the members or drawn upon for the payment of dividends.

269. Surplus earnings may be allocated in full to the general reserve. A credit union may decide not to pay any interest on the permanent shares issued by it or not to allot any dividend.

270. The by-laws of the credit union and of the federation with which it is affiliated may provide for the allocation of any other amount to the general reserve.

271. The board of directors must pay into the general reserve, out of the amounts allocated to the stabilization reserve, such sums as are necessary to attain the percentage prescribed in section 267 or by the by-laws of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated.

Where the amounts allocated to the stabilization reserve are not paid into the general reserve, they may serve for the payment of interest on permanent shares.

272. A credit union may, by by-law, establish a fund for social or community purposes. Not more than 10% of the amount paid as to dividends may be paid into the fund. The sums allocated to the fund must be used by the board of directors within three years following their allocation, failing which they shall be paid into the general reserve.

However, the board of directors must pay out of the fund any sum that must be paid into the general reserve to attain the percentage prescribed in section 267 or by the by-laws of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where the sums allocated to the stabilization reserve are not sufficient.

273. Dividends may vary according to the nature of the transactions made with the credit union and may be paid in the form of permanent or preferred shares.

CHAPTER XV

BOOKS AND REGISTERS

274. Every credit union shall keep at its head office a register containing

(1) its articles of incorporation and the related certificates of the Inspector General, its by-laws and any notice concerning the address of its head office;

(2) the minutes and resolutions of the meetings;

(3) the minutes of meetings and the resolutions of the board of directors, of the credit committee, of the board of supervision and of any special committee;

(4) a list containing the surname, given name and occupation of each officer of the credit union, and stating, for each term of office, the date on which it begins and the date on which it ends, or its duration, as the case may be;

(5) a list containing the corporate name or the surname and given name and last recorded address of each member or other shareholder of the credit union;

(6) the number of permanent or preferred shares held by each member or shareholder;

(7) the particulars of the subscription of each share and the date of its subscription, redemption or transfer;

(8) a list of charges exigible by the credit union for the various services offered by it;

(9) the management agreements entered into by the credit union and the federation with which it is affiliated or the security fund corporation incorporated at the request of the federation or the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case;

(10) the compliance programs of the credit union;

(11) the orders of the Inspector General and of the Minister;

(12) the written instructions of the Inspector General, the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

275. Every credit union shall, in addition, keep at its head office

(1) the books, registers and accounting records necessary for preparing the financial statements;

(2) statements of account indicating, on a daily basis and for each depositor, the transactions between the credit union and that depositor and the balance owing to or by the credit union in respect of that depositor.

276. The registers, books and accounting records of the credit union may be entered or recorded by means of any information storage device capable of reproducing any information in intelligible written form.

277. In no case may a credit union destroy any cheque accepted or paid within less than 10 years or any book, register or other accounting records dating back less than 10 years.

The destruction by a credit union of any document described in the first paragraph must be carried out in accordance with the by-laws of the federation with which it is affiliated and of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

278. Any member of a credit union may examine in the register of the credit union the documents described in paragraphs 1, 2, 4, 5 and 8 of section 274 during usual business hours.

He may also obtain copies of the documents described in paragraphs 1, 2, 4 and 8 of the said section. The credit union may require the payment of the expenses incurred for the reproduction and transmission of such documents.

The credit union may require a member to declare under oath that the information he obtains under this section will be used solely for the exercise of his rights under this Act.

279. The Inspector General may, at all times, obtain a copy of the list referred to in paragraph 8 of section 274. He may also distribute the list by any means he considers appropriate.

CHAPTER XVI

AUDIT

280. Every credit union shall cause its books and accounts to be audited every year by an auditor.

The audit shall be conducted by the auditor of the auditing service of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or, by the auditor of the auditing service of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated where that is the case.

Where the federation or confederation, as the case may be, has no auditing service, the credit union shall appoint an auditor.

281. A federation or confederation has, in exercising its duties as auditor, the powers and obligations set out in sections 292 to 296 and 298 to 300 in respect of auditors.

282. The auditor of a credit union not affiliated with a federation shall be appointed at the annual meeting. His appointment expires at the next annual meeting.

If the office of auditor becomes vacant, the directors shall appoint a replacement. They may, in addition, appoint a person to exercise the duties of the auditor when the auditor is unable to act.

283. If a credit union fails to have its books and accounts audited or to appoint an auditor in accordance with this Act, the Inspector General may appoint an auditor whose remuneration shall be charged to the credit union.

284. The auditor responsible for auditing the affairs of a credit union must be a member in good standing of the Ordre des comptables agréés du Québec.

285. In no case may the auditor be an officer, an associate of an officer, an employee or a member of the credit union or of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case. However, the auditor may be a person employed in such capacity by the federation or the confederation.

286. The auditor of a credit union shall resign upon ceasing to be qualified to act as auditor.

287. The Inspector General or any interested person may apply to the Superior Court to obtain the dismissal of an auditor who does not meet the requirements of section 284 or 285.

288. Every unaffiliated credit union must inform the Inspector General within 10 days of the resignation of the auditor or of the decision to propose his dismissal during his term of office.

289. The auditor shall have access to all the books, registers, accounts, other accounting records and vouchers of the credit union. Every person having custody of those documents must facilitate their examination by the auditor.

290. The auditor may require the holding of a meeting of the board of directors on any question related to his duties as auditor. The meeting shall be convened in accordance with section 149.

The auditor may require from the officers, mandataries and employees of the credit union the information and documents necessary to enable him to perform his duties as auditor.

291. The auditor shall submit his report to the board of directors of the credit union.

292. The auditor shall indicate in his report

(1) whether his examination has been made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards;

(2) whether, in his opinion, the financial statements of the credit union included in the report submitted to the annual meeting present fairly the financial position of the credit union and the results of its operations, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied in the same manner as in the preceding fiscal year;

(3) any other information prescribed by regulation of the Government.

The auditor shall include in his report sufficient explanations in respect of any reservations he may have expressed.

293. The auditor shall report to the board of directors in writing any transaction or situation affecting the interest of the credit union that, in his opinion, is not satisfactory and requires rectification. In particular he shall, as occasion requires, report to the board any transactions of the credit union and transactions between the credit union and restricted parties which have come to his notice and which lead him to believe that the credit union is in contravention of this Act or any regulation made thereunder by the Government.

He shall transmit a copy of the report referred to in the first paragraph to the board of supervision of the credit union, to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case, and to the Inspector General.

Every person other than an advocate or a notary who provides professional services without being appointed therefor has, in respect of transactions between restricted parties and the credit union, the same obligations as the auditor.

294. An auditor or the person referred to in the third paragraph of section 293 who makes a report in good faith under the said section shall not thereby incur any civil liability.

295. The auditor is entitled to attend any general meeting and be heard thereat on any matter relating to his duties as auditor.

The secretary shall give notice of every general meeting to the auditor.

296. Two directors or 10 members may, by means of a notice of at least five days, require the presence of the auditor at a general meeting and the auditor is bound to attend.

297. If a director, the director general or the assistant-secretary becomes aware of an error or misstatement in the financial statements on which the auditor reported, he shall immediately notify the auditor thereof and, if necessary, send him revised financial statements.

298. If the auditor is notified or becomes aware of an error or misstatement in a financial statement on which he reported, and if in his opinion the error or misstatement is material, he shall inform each director of the error or misstatement.

The directors who are informed of the error or misstatement shall, within 60 days, prepare and issue revised financial statements or inform the members, the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case, and the Inspector General of the error or misstatement.

299. The auditor shall, in addition, audit the financial statements included in the annual statements submitted to the Inspector General and transmit his report to him and send a copy to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case.

300. The auditor shall indicate in the report required under section 299

(1) whether his examination has been made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards;

(2) whether, in his opinion and on the basis of generally recognized accounting principles, applied in the same manner as in the preceding fiscal year, the financial statements included in the annual statement present fairly the financial position of the credit union and the results of its operations;

(3) whether, in his opinion, the method used to present particulars that may affect the security of depositors is adequate;

(4) whether, in the normal course of his audit, he has become aware of situations or transactions which lead him to believe that the credit union has not adhered to sound financial practices;

(5) whether, in his opinion, the management practices adopted by the ethics committee as regards self-dealing and conflicts of interest are adequate and whether the credit union is complying therewith;

(6) any other information prescribed by government regulation.

301. The Inspector General may order that the annual audit of the affairs of a credit union be repeated or extended or that a special audit be made.

He may, for that purpose, appoint an auditor whose remuneration shall be charged to the credit union.

CHAPTER XVII

FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

302. Unless otherwise prescribed in its by-laws the fiscal year of a credit union ends on 31 December each year.

303. At the end of its fiscal year, the credit union shall prepare an annual report containing

- (1) the corporate name and address of its head office;
- (2) the surname, given name and occupation of each of its officers;
- (3) the number of its members;

(4) a statement of assets and liabilities, a statement of results, a statement of the stabilization reserve and of the community or social fund, a statement of unallocated surplus earnings, a statement of the general reserve and a statement of provisions to cover losses on credit extended and investments made, presented on a comparative basis with the corresponding statements for the immediately preceding fiscal year;

(5) a statement showing the total amount of credit extended to restricted parties and to persons who are associates of any of its officers;

(6) where applicable, a statement showing the credit union's participating interest in the investment fund of the federation with which it is affiliated and the return on such interest;

(7) the auditor's report;

(8) the report of activities of the credit committee, of the board of supervision and of special committees, if any;

(9) the other statements and information required by by-law of the credit union;

(10) any other information required by government regulation.

304. The annual report shall be submitted to the board of directors for approval. The approval of the board must be certified by at least two of the directors.

305. Every member is entitled to receive, on request and free of charge, a copy of the annual report.

306. Within four months after the end of the fiscal year, the board of directors shall transmit a copy of the annual report to the Inspector General and to the federation with which it is affiliated and to the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

307. Within four months after the end of its fiscal year, the credit union shall prepare and transmit to the Inspector General and to the federation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, an annual statement of its financial position setting out the results of its operations for the year.

The statement must be signed by two directors.

308. Every credit union shall furnish to the Inspector General, at his request, on the dates and in the form he determines, the statements, statistics, reports and other information he deems appropriate to enable him to determine whether the credit union is complying with this Act.

The Inspector General may transmit a copy of the documents received by him under the first paragraph to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated and to the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

CHAPTER XVIII

WINDING-UP

309. Divisions II and III of the Winding-up Act (R.S.Q., chapter L-4) apply to the winding-up of any credit union, subject to the provisions of this chapter.

For the purposes of the application of the said Act to a credit union, the word “company”, in the said Act, means a credit union, the word “shareholder” means a member of the credit union and, where a provision of the said Act requires the vote of the shareholders representing a specified proportion of the capital stock of a company, that provision is deemed to require the vote of a number of members of the credit union corresponding to the specified proportion in value.

310. The winding-up of a credit union may be decided by a resolution adopted by the vote of three-fourths of the members present at a special meeting.

The meeting shall then appoint, by the vote of a majority of the members present, a liquidator who is entitled to immediate possession of the property of the credit union.

The credit union shall thereafter exist and carry on business solely for the purposes of the winding-up of its affairs.

311. In order to guarantee the performance of his duties before taking possession of the property of the credit union, the liquidator shall give sufficient security and maintain it thereafter. At the request of the Inspector General or of any other interested person, a judge of the Superior Court may determine the amount and nature of the security and increase it according to circumstances where the liquidator is neither the federation with which the credit union is affiliated nor a security fund corporation.

312. Every credit union that has decided to effect the winding-up of its business shall give notice to the Inspector General and to the federation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, within 10 days after the passing of a resolution to that effect and forward to them, within the same time, a certified copy of the resolution. The credit union shall cause the notice to be published in the Gazette officielle du Québec and in a daily newspaper circulated in the locality where the head office of the credit union is situated.

The notice shall indicate the date of the passing of the resolution to wind up, the surname, given name and address of the liquidator and the address where interested persons may send him their claims.

313. From the time the notice is published in the Gazette officielle du Québec, all proceedings against the property of the credit union, whether by seizure before judgment, seizure in execution or otherwise, shall be suspended.

The costs incurred by a creditor directly or through his attorney after the publication of the notice shall not be collocated out of the proceeds of the property of the credit union.

A judge of the Superior Court of the district in which the head office of the credit union is situated may, however, on the conditions he considers suitable, authorize the institution or continuance of any proceedings.

314. The liquidator shall first pay the debts of the credit union and the costs of winding-up. He shall then repay the preferred shares according to their respective ranks, followed by the permanent shares, and finally the qualifying shares.

The sums representing deposits or shares which have not been paid shall be transferred to the Minister of Finance and deposited into the consolidated revenue fund.

Any person entitled to any of the sums transferred to the Minister of Finance may require payment thereof by asserting his claim, and prescription shall not be invoked against him.

The Minister of Finance is authorized to make the payment of such sums out of the consolidated revenue fund.

315. After the payments referred to in section 314 are made, the balance of the assets devolves upon the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, upon a legal person designated by the Government.

316. If the members fail to confirm the account provided for in section 16 of the Winding-up Act, the approval of a judge of the Superior Court stands in lieu thereof.

317. The liquidator shall transmit at the request of the Inspector General, within the time and in respect of the period he determines, a summary report of his activities or any document or information he requires concerning the conduct of the winding-up.

318. The liquidator shall transmit to the Inspector General a copy of the account he submits to the general meeting of the members pursuant to section 15 of the Winding-up Act.

319. When the winding-up of the credit union is completed, the liquidator shall transmit a final report of his activities to the Inspector General.

The liquidator shall, in addition, forward to the federation with which the credit union was affiliated or, if it was not affiliated, to the Inspector General the documents of which he took possession for the purposes of the winding-up.

320. The Inspector General may, even if he alleges no particular interest, act before the courts in all matters respecting the winding-up and exercise, on behalf of the members or creditors of the credit union, any right they may have against the credit union.

CHAPTER XIX

DISSOLUTION

321. The Minister may, if he considers it advisable and after obtaining his advice, request the Inspector General to dissolve a credit union if

- (1) the number of members is reduced to less than 12;
- (2) the organization meeting is not held within 60 days after the date of incorporation or, as the case may be, within the time granted by the Inspector General;
- (3) the credit union has failed, for three consecutive years, to hold the annual meeting of its members or to furnish a copy of its annual report to the Inspector General;
- (4) the liquidator has failed to transmit to the Inspector General the reports or information required under sections 317, 318 and 319.

322. The Minister may, if he considers it advisable, request the Inspector General to dissolve a credit union if,

- (1) 60 days after the confirmation of the resolution provided for in section 16 or after its expulsion from a federation, the credit union has failed to pass a by-law or resolution, as the case may be, to affiliate with another federation, apply for the incorporation of a new federation, amalgamate with a credit union affiliated with another federation, wind up or apply to the Minister to be exempted from compliance with section 11;

(2) 120 days after the confirmation of the resolution provided for in section 16 or of its expulsion from a federation, the credit union has failed to affiliate with another federation, incorporate a new federation, submit to the Inspector General an amalgamation agreement with a credit union affiliated with another federation or if it has failed to pass a resolution for its winding-up or has not obtained from the Minister the permission to be exempted from compliance with section 11;

(3) 60 days after the publication of the notice of winding-up or dissolution of the federation with which it is affiliated, the credit union has failed to pass a by-law or resolution, as the case may be, to affiliate with another federation, apply for the incorporation of a new federation, amalgamate with a credit union affiliated with another federation, wind up or apply to the Minister to be exempted from compliance with section 11;

(4) 120 days after the publication of the notice of winding-up or dissolution of the federation with which it is affiliated, the credit union has failed to affiliate with another federation, submit to the Inspector General an amalgamation agreement with a credit union affiliated with another federation or if it has failed to pass a resolution for its winding-up or has not obtained from the Minister the permission to be exempted from compliance with section 11.

323. Before requesting the Inspector General to dissolve a credit union, the Minister shall give the credit union or the liquidator, as the case may be, notice of the alleged default and of the penalty that applies and give him or it an opportunity to make representations within 30 days from the date of the notice. Copy of the notice must be transmitted to the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, where that is the case.

If, after considering the representations of the credit union or of the liquidator or, if none were made, at the expiry of the period of time fixed in the first paragraph, the Minister maintains the notice of default, and the default is not remedied within 30 days following the expiry of the period of time fixed in the first paragraph, the Minister shall request the Inspector General to dissolve the credit union.

324. The Inspector General shall cause to be published in the Gazette officielle du Québec a notice of dissolution of the credit union, which shall become effective on the date of publication of the notice.

325. The Public Curator shall have the seizin of the property of any dissolved credit union. He shall act as the liquidator of the property in accordance with section 314 and be accountable to the Inspector General.

326. The balance of the assets of a credit union devolves in accordance with section 315.

When the liquidation of the property of the dissolved credit union is completed, the Public Curator shall deliver to the federation with which the credit union was affiliated or, if it was not affiliated, to the Inspector General, the documents of the credit union of which he took possession.

327. On the application of any interested person, the Minister may, if he considers it advisable and after obtaining the advice of the Inspector General, request the latter to revoke the dissolution retroactively to the date on which it became effective, by publishing a notice to that effect in the Gazette officielle du Québec.

The Minister shall determine the conditions of the revocation of the dissolution. However, in no case may the revocation of a dissolution prejudice the rights acquired by any person after the dissolution.

TITLE III

FEDERATIONS

INTERPRETATION

328. Except where incompatible, the provisions of Title II and of the regulations made thereunder by the Government apply to federations, adapted as required.

However, the following provisions do not apply to federations: sections 11 to 14, 16 to 19, the third paragraph of section 46, sections 67 to 109, 111, 221, 227 to 239, 256 to 258, 260, 262, subparagraph 5 of the first paragraph and the third paragraph of section 266, and section 267.

329. For the application of Title II to a federation, the word “federation” means “confederation”. In addition, the provisions of any section relating to a confederation must be ignored.

For the application of section 314 to a federation, a permanent share means a cooperative share.

INCORPORATION AND CORPORATE NAME

330. Twelve or more credit unions may apply for incorporation as a federation.

331. To be a founder, a credit union must have obtained prior authorization by way of a resolution of its board of directors, setting out the name of the representative of the credit union for the purposes of the incorporation of the federation. The resolution must be ratified by the vote of two-thirds of the members present at a special meeting or, provided that the notice of meeting sets out the object of the resolution, at an annual meeting.

The credit union shall notify the federation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, of the holding of the meeting. A representative of the federation may attend and address the meeting.

332. A certified copy of the resolution of every founding credit union must accompany the articles of incorporation of the federation.

333. The corporate name of a federation must include the word "federation".

CAPITAL STOCK

334. The capital stock of a federation shall consist of qualifying shares the price of which shall be determined by by-law of the federation. It may also include cooperative shares and preferred shares. The by-law of the federation shall determine the price, rights, conditions and privileges attached to cooperative shares and preferred shares. The by-law respecting cooperative shares must be approved by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

The shares shall be in registered form and may be issued only to members and, where permitted by the by-laws of the federation, qualifying shares and preferred shares may also be issued to auxiliary members.

335. No interest is payable on qualifying shares issued by a federation.

336. A federation shall not make any payment to redeem qualifying shares issued by it except where a credit union withdraws or is expelled from the federation or where the federation is wound up, becomes insolvent or is dissolved.

A federation shall not make any payment to redeem shares or pay dividends if such payment would result in reducing its capital base to a level lower than the level it is required to maintain under this Act.

CHAPTER IV

MEMBERS

337. Only credit unions may be members of a federation.

A federation may admit any other legal person or a partnership as an auxiliary member.

338. To become a member of a federation, a credit union must

(1) apply for affiliation, except in the case of a founding credit union;

(2) undertake to comply with the by-laws of the federation;

(3) subscribe and pay for the number of qualifying shares prescribed by by-law of the federation or, in the absence of such a by-law, one qualifying share;

(4) be admitted by the board of directors of the federation or a person authorized by the board, except in the case of a founding credit union.

339. A federation may accept an application for affiliation submitted by the founders of a credit union. The affiliation shall become effective upon the incorporation of the credit union.

340. A federation shall, by by-law, prescribe the other conditions of affiliation applicable to its members, define their rights and obligations as members and prescribe the conditions applicable to the withdrawal or expulsion of members.

341. Every decision of a federation concerning the affiliation or expulsion of a credit union shall be transmitted to the credit union by registered or certified mail and a copy shall be sent to the Inspector General.

The decision of a federation to expel a credit union shall not become effective

(1) until another federation has undertaken to admit the credit union as a member or until the new federation the incorporation of which the credit union has applied for is incorporated and the credit union has received articles of amendment to be affiliated therewith;

(2) until the credit union has amalgamated with a credit union affiliated with a federation;

(3) until the credit union is dissolved;

(4) until the credit union is exempted from compliance with section 11 by the Minister.

342. A federation may, by by-law, establish one or several classes of auxiliary members, prescribe the conditions of affiliation applicable to such members, define their rights and obligations and prescribe criteria or conditions applicable to the withdrawal, suspension or expulsion of auxiliary members.

Auxiliary members are not entitled to vote and their representatives are not eligible for office.

CHAPTER V

MEETING OF THE MEMBERS

343. The general meeting of a federation shall consist of the representatives of the credit unions affiliated with the federation.

The organization meeting shall, however, consist of the persons who have signed the articles of incorporation in their capacity as representatives.

344. A federation shall, by by-law, prescribe

(1) the manner in which the credit unions affiliated with it are to be called to and represented at the general meetings;

(2) criteria for determining the number of representatives and votes to which each credit union is entitled.

CHAPTER VI

DIRECTION AND MANAGEMENT

DIVISION I

BOARD OF DIRECTORS, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND ETHICS COMMITTEE

345. The directors of a federation shall be elected from among the directors of the credit unions affiliated with it or from among persons meeting the requirements prescribed by by-law of the federation.

The following persons are disqualified from holding office as a director:

(1) a representative of a credit union affiliated for less than 90 days, except in the case of a founding credit union;

(2) an employee of the federation, unless he is the general manager, an employee of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation, where that is the case;

(3) a member of the credit committee or of the board of supervision of the federation;

(4) an officer of another federation within the meaning of section 187, or an employee of another federation;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

Moreover, in no case may the majority of the members of the board of directors be general managers of the federation or of affiliated credit unions, or officers of holding companies controlled by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

346. A federation may, by by-law, provide that the chairman of its board of directors shall not be the president of the federation. In any case, however, the president of the federation must be chosen by the board of directors from among its members.

The by-law may also provide that the president of the federation shall remain in office until the expiry of his term as director. In addition, the federation may, by by-law, prescribe the mode of appointment of the secretary of the federation, who need not be a member of the board of directors.

347. The general manager of a federation or of credit unions affiliated with it shall not be the president or vice-president of the federation or the chairman or vice-chairman of its board of directors.

348. The directors, the secretary and the assistant-secretary shall receive, in addition to the reimbursement of reasonable expenses they incur in the performance of their duties, an attendance allowance in an amount fixed by the board of directors. The aggregate amount paid in that respect shall not, however, exceed the amount fixed by the general meeting. No allowance shall be paid before the maximum amount is fixed by the general meeting.

The president of a federation may be remunerated.

349. Where the board of directors consists of more than eight members, it may, if so authorized by by-law of the federation, appoint an executive committee consisting of not fewer than three directors, including the chairman.

Moreover, in no case may the majority of the members of the executive committee be employees of the federation or of credit unions affiliated with it, and the number of members of the executive committee shall not exceed one-half of the number of directors.

350. The executive committee shall exercise the powers of the board of directors to the extent determined by by-law of the federation.

351. In case of vacancy, the directors may appoint a replacement for the unexpired portion of the term of office.

352. Sections 128 to 131 and 149 to 152, adapted as required, apply to the executive committee.

353. A federation shall appoint an ethics committee consisting of not fewer than three members elected by the annual meeting.

The members of the ethics committee are officers within the meaning of section 187, and section 348, adapted as required, applies to them.

354. No member of the ethics committee may be an employee of the federation or of the credit unions affiliated with it, or a director, officer or employee of a holding company controlled by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case, of a legal person controlled by the holding company or, if the federation is affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec, of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec, or a shareholder holding 10% or more of the voting rights attached to the shares of legal persons belonging to the same group as the federation.

355. The ethics committee shall adopt rules for the protection of the interests of the federation, the credit unions affiliated with it and their members, that are consistent with the policies of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

The rules shall concern, in particular, the procedure governing contracts with restricted parties, the conditions applicable to the credit extended to them, the disclosure requirements of the federation, credit unions affiliated with it and restricted parties, the protection of confidential information held by the federation and credit unions affiliated with it in respect of their members, and the conduct required of the federation and credit unions affiliated with it in cases where their interest or that of a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation is in conflict with that of the members of the credit union.

356. The rules adopted by the ethics committee shall be submitted to the board of directors of the federation for approval.

The federation shall transmit a copy of the rules to the Inspector General and to the confederation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, within 30 days of their approval.

357. The ethics committee shall each year transmit to the Inspector General, within two months of the closing date of the fiscal year of the federation, a report of its activities to the closing date.

The report shall set out, in particular,

- (1) the surname, given name, address and occupation of each member of the committee;
- (2) any change among the members of the committee;
- (3) the terms of reference of the committee;
- (4) the list of cases of conflict of interest and self-dealing referred to the committee;

(5) the cases where the rules adopted by the committee have not been observed.

CREDIT COMMITTEE

358. The members of the credit committee shall be elected at the annual meeting from among the members of any credit union affiliated with the federation, except

(1) a member of a credit union affiliated for less than 90 days, except in the case of a founding credit union;

(2) an employee of an affiliated credit union, unless he is the general manager, or an employee of the federation;

(3) a director or a member of the board of supervision of a federation;

(4) an officer of another federation within the meaning of section 187, or an employee of another federation;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

359. In no case may the quorum of the credit committee be made up of a majority of persons who are general managers of credit unions affiliated with the federation.

360. The members of the credit committee shall receive, in addition to the reimbursement of reasonable expenses they incur in the performance of their duties, an attendance allowance in an amount fixed by the board of directors. The aggregate amount paid in that respect shall not exceed the amount fixed by the general meeting. No allowance shall be paid before the maximum amount is fixed by the general meeting.

DIVISION III

BOARD OF SUPERVISION

361. The members of the board of supervision shall be elected at the general meeting from among the members of any credit union affiliated with the federation, except

(1) a member of a credit union affiliated for less than 90 days, except in the case of a founding credit union;

(2) an employee of the credit union, unless he is the general manager, or an employee of the federation;

(3) a director or a member of the credit committee of the federation;

(4) an officer of another federation within the meaning of section 187 or an employee of another federation;

(5) an interdicted person or a person of unsound mind declared incapable by a court, even a foreign court;

(6) an undischarged bankrupt.

362. In no case may the quorum of the board of supervision be made up of a majority of persons who are general managers of credit unions affiliated with the federation.

363. The members of the board of supervision may receive, in addition to the reimbursement of reasonable expenses they incur in the performance of their duties, an attendance allowance in an amount fixed by the board of directors. The aggregate amount paid in that respect shall not exceed the amount fixed by the general meeting. No allowance shall be paid before the maximum amount is fixed by the general meeting.

OPERATIONS

GENERAL PROVISIONS

364. In addition to the other powers it may exercise under this Act, every federation may

(1) develop policies on any matter enabling the credit unions affiliated with it to attain their objects;

(2) examine the books and accounts of any credit union affiliated with it;

(3) make a convention with any credit union affiliated with it for the supervision, administration or management of its affairs, including those of its credit committee, for a specified period;

(4) participate with any credit union affiliated with it in the establishment and management of the services that the credit union may provide;

(5) establish a pension plan under paragraph 6 of section 214 for the benefit of the employees of a credit union affiliated with it, and their spouses and dependants;

(6) act, for the purposes of this Act, as the provisional administrator or liquidator of a credit union affiliated with it;

(7) provide appropriate services to persons wishing to incorporate a credit union;

(8) acquire the qualifying shares required to become a member of a confederation;

(9) guarantee, according to law, the undertakings of any credit union affiliated with it;

(10) provide, as the mandatary of a credit union affiliated with it and with the consent thereof, any service the credit union may offer;

(11) where it is affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec, transfer to La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec or acquire from it any loan granted by the federation or La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec.

365. Every federation may, by by-law applicable to the credit unions affiliated with it, establish classes of credit and determine, for all or one or more classes, or for one or more forms of credit of any such class, conditions and restrictions respecting the exercise of the powers of a credit union in matters of credit.

The by-laws of the federation shall be submitted for approval to the confederation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Government.

366. Every federation may pass by-laws applicable to the credit unions affiliated with it concerning

(1) the reports a credit union is required to submit for the purpose of determining the amount of the exigible assessments, and the form and tenor thereof;

(2) any other financial or administrative matter.

367. A federation not affiliated with a confederation shall adopt by-laws applicable to the credit unions affiliated with it concerning

(1) the required reserves for bad debts and contingent losses;

(2) the requirements respecting their accounting system and the books, registers and other accounting records which they are required to keep;

(3) the management, preservation and destruction of documents issued or received by the credit unions.

368. A federation not affiliated with a confederation may, by by-law applicable to the credit unions affiliated with it, establish standards relating to the adequacy of their liquid assets.

An affiliated federation or an unaffiliated federation may, in addition, by by-law applicable to the credit union affiliated with it, establish standards relating to the adequacy of their general reserve.

369. A federation may, when adopting by-laws under this Act, establish various classes of credit unions or transactions and prescribe appropriate standards for each class.

370. The by-laws of a federation shall be transmitted to the Inspector General and to the confederation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case.

371. Where a federation considers that the financial position of a credit union affiliated with it is not satisfactory or that its assets are not sufficient to give adequate protection to its depositors, creditors and members, it may

(1) give written instructions to the credit union respecting the measures it considers appropriate to remedy the situation and specify the period within which the credit union is required to comply therewith;

(2) order the credit union, within the period prescribed and for the reasons specified by it, to adopt and implement a compliance program in accordance with its instructions.

The federation shall, within 10 days, transmit to the confederation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, to the Inspector General a copy of the instructions or orders given or issued under the first paragraph.

372. Every federation shall notify the Inspector General and the confederation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, of any failure of a credit union to comply with the written instructions or order it has given or issued thereto.

373. The Inspector General may, after giving the credit union an opportunity to present its views in writing within the time fixed by him, approve the instructions or order of the federation with or without amendment.

Once approved, the instructions or order of the federation are regarded as written instructions of the Inspector General.

374. If, in the opinion of the Inspector General, a federation fails to exercise the powers conferred on it by section 371, he may, after giving the federation an opportunity to present its views in writing within the time limit he fixes and after obtaining the advice of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case, give the credit union concerned the instructions he deems expedient.

375. A federation has all the powers necessary to make good any operating deficit of a credit union affiliated with it, in case of a deficiency in the general reserve of the credit union where the security fund corporation of which it is a member does not do so.

The federation shall make up the deficit out of its own funds or by means of a special assessment collected from the credit unions affiliated with it.

376. Every federation not affiliated with a confederation shall establish and maintain a service to audit the financial statements of the credit unions affiliated with it or, if it does not establish such a service, designate an auditor for each affiliated credit union affiliated with it.

Every unaffiliated federation shall also establish and maintain an inspection service for the credit unions affiliated with it.

377. Every federation not affiliated with a confederation shall, at least once a year, inspect the internal affairs and activities of the credit unions affiliated with it.

378. The annual inspection shall be carried out for the purposes, in particular, of evaluating the financial policies and practices and the internal control system of a credit union, verifying the accuracy of its financial statements and ensuring that it is complying with this Act and the regulations that are applicable to it under this Act.

379. Every person making an inspection under this chapter may

(1) enter the place of business of the credit union concerned at any reasonable time;

(2) examine and make copies from books, registers, accounts, records and other documents relating to the activities of the credit union;

(3) require any information or document relating to the enforcement of this Act.

Every person having the custody, possession or control of the books, registers, accounts, records and other documents shall, at the request of the person making the inspection, permit access to the documents and facilitate his examination of them.

380. The person making an inspection shall identify himself on request and produce a certificate of the federation attesting his capacity.

381. No person may hinder the work of any person making an inspection, in particular by misleading him.

382. The federation shall render an account of its inspection to the Inspector General and to the board of directors, credit committee and board of supervision of the credit union concerned. It shall, in addition, transmit to the Inspector General a copy of its inspection report.

383. The federation may convene, separately or jointly, the board of directors, the credit committee and the board of supervision of the inspected credit union to submit and explain its inspection report to them.

384. Following the inspection of a credit union, the federation may order that a special meeting be called to inform the members.

385. The person making the inspection of a credit union on behalf of a federation shall in no case be the person responsible for the audit of the credit union.

DIVISION II

ASSESSMENTS

386. A federation may, by by-law, fix for each fiscal year a regular assessment and any other assessment it considers necessary.

Every affiliated credit union is bound to pay the assessments.

387. A federation may also, by resolution of its board of directors, fix an assessment in respect of an affiliated credit union which agrees to avail itself of special services offered by the federation.

388. Affiliated credit unions shall furnish to the federation any report that it may require pursuant to its by-laws to fix the amount of assessments.

DIVISION III

CAPITAL BASE

389. Every federation shall maintain a capital base equal to at least 5% of its total liabilities. The Inspector General may reduce or increase the percentage where he deems it necessary.

Before exercising the power set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the federation of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

For the purpose of maintaining its capital base, a federation may, by by-law, impose on the credit unions affiliated with it standards respecting the adequacy of their capital base.

390. The capital base of a federation shall include

- (1) its general reserve and that of each affiliated credit union;
- (2) the qualifying shares issued by each affiliated credit union;
- (3) the preferred shares issued by each affiliated credit union not exceeding 1% of the liabilities of the federation;
- (4) the permanent shares issued by each affiliated credit union, except the permanent shares held by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case;
- (5) the fraction of the security fund, liquidity fund or mutual aid fund established and administered by the security fund corporation for the benefit of the credit unions affiliated with the federation, which represents the amount corresponding to the ratio between the sum of the deposits received by the federation and the credit unions affiliated with it and the sum of the deposits received by all the credit unions that are members of the corporation and all the federations with which they are affiliated;
- (6) its stabilization reserve and that of affiliated credit unions;
- (7) the fraction of the general reserve of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec which represents the amount corresponding to the ratio between the total liabilities of the federation and the total liabilities of all the federations which are affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec;
- (8) any other asset determined by government regulation.

391. For the purposes of section 389, the liabilities of a federation shall consist of the deposits received and loans contracted by the federation and the credit unions affiliated with it, accrued and outstanding interest on such deposits and loans, and other liabilities determined by government regulation.

In the case of a federation affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec, the fraction of the liabilities of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec which represents the amount corresponding to the ratio between the total liabilities of the federation and the total liabilities of all the federations that are affiliated with the said confederation shall also be taken into account.

392. The assets and liabilities constituting the capital base and the liabilities of a federation and the credit unions affiliated with it and, where applicable, of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec shall be presented in combined form according to generally accepted accounting principles and, where that is the case, standards prescribed by government regulation.

393. A federation may, with the authorization of the Inspector General and for the time and on the conditions he specifies, transfer to another federation affiliated with the same confederation all or part of its rights in the fund referred to in paragraph 5 of section 390.

In such case, the value of the rights transferred shall, for the duration of the transfer and for the purposes of section 390, be deducted from the capital base of the transferring federation and added to the capital base of the federation to which the transfer is made.

Before authorizing the transfer, the Inspector General shall obtain the advice of the confederation.

394. The capital base of a federation shall be reduced by the amount of any investment or credit that is not in compliance with this Act made or extended by the federation or an affiliated credit union, unless it was made or extended before (insert here the date of the coming into force of this section) and as long as it is recognized as an asset by the Inspector General on such conditions as he may determine.

395. Where the Inspector General considers that the capital base of a federation is below the level applicable to it or that it is inadequate in view of the transactions of the federation or of the credit unions affiliated with it, or where he ascertains that the federation has requested additional assistance from the security fund corporation of which the credit unions affiliated with it are members, he may order the federation or, as the case may be, the confederation with which it is affiliated to adopt to his satisfaction, within the time he prescribes and for the reasons he indicates, a compliance program for the federation and the credit unions affiliated with it.

Before exercising the powers set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the confederation or the federation, as the case may be, of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

396. The compliance program shall describe the appropriate measures to be applied by the federation to ensure the adequacy of its capital base, at such intervals as are indicated therein.

397. The compliance program adopted by a confederation or a federation shall be submitted for approval to the Inspector General, who may approve it with or without amendment.

398. A federation and the credit unions affiliated with it are bound to implement the compliance program approved by the Inspector General. In addition, the federation shall be responsible for seeing to it that the program is implemented by the credit unions affiliated with it.

The Inspector General may, while a compliance program is in effect, give the credit union affected by the program and the federation any written instructions he deems appropriate with respect to the powers exercised by the credit committees.

Before exercising the power set out in the second paragraph, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union and the federation of his intention and give them an opportunity to be heard.

399. A federation and the credit unions affiliated with it must furnish to the Inspector General any report he may require on the implementation of the compliance program, at such intervals, in such form and of such tenor as he may determine.

400. Where, following an order of the Inspector General under section 395, a federation is required to implement a compliance program, the powers set out in section 371 shall, while the program is in effect, be exercised by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, by the Inspector General, after he has obtained the advice of the federation.

401. Where a federation fails to implement a compliance program, the confederation with which the federation is affiliated may, on the fifteenth day following the mailing of a formal notice to that effect, implement the program in the place of the federation.

The Inspector General may, in the same manner, implement the compliance program that a federation not affiliated with a confederation has failed to implement.

DIVISION IV

INVESTMENTS

402. A federation may invest in any kind of property.

403. A federation shall not acquire or hold, directly or indirectly, more than 30 % of the shares issued by a legal person or shares carrying more than 30 % of the voting rights attached to all the shares issued by the legal person or shares in any number enabling it to elect more than one-third of the directors of that legal person.

A federation is deemed to hold the shares held by a legal person belonging to the same group as the federation and by the credit unions affiliated with it, except shares held by a confederation in a holding company controlled by the confederation or shares held by such company.

If, following an acquisition of shares by a legal person belonging to the same group as a federation, such federation is deemed to hold more than 30 % of the shares of a legal person or to hold a number of shares carrying more than 30 % of the voting rights attached to all the shares issued by a legal person or enabling it to elect more than one-third of its directors, the federation, the legal persons belonging to the same group as the federation and the credit unions affiliated with the federation shall dispose of any share over 30 %, any share carrying voting rights in excess of 30 % or any share permitting to elect more than one-third of the directors within two years of their acquisition unless the federation, within that time, ceases to be deemed to hold such excess.

A federation not affiliated with a confederation may, however, with the authorization of the Minister and on such conditions as he may determine, hold more than 30 % of the shares of a legal person or hold shares carrying more than 30 % of the voting rights attached to all the shares issued by the same legal person or enabling it to elect more than one-third of the directors of such legal person.

404. Notwithstanding section 403, a federation may acquire or hold, for control purposes, shares issued by a legal person whose sole purpose consists in holding an immovable which will serve mainly as head office of the federation.

In that case, the investment of the federation shall, for the purposes of section 408, be posted on a consolidated basis.

405. A federation shall not acquire shares in a holding company controlled by the confederation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, or shares in a legal person controlled by such a company.

406. A federation shall not acquire shares in a legal person where such shares are already held, directly or indirectly, by a holding company controlled by the confederation with which it is affiliated.

407. A federation must dispose of any share held in a legal person where the holding company controlled by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated acquires, directly or indirectly, any of such shares.

The federation shall dispose of the shares within a two-year period. This period shall run from the date of acquisition of the shares by the holding company or the legal person controlled by it.

408. A federation may invest

(1) without any limits, in any security mentioned in subparagraphs 1 to 3 of section 256, in bonds or other debt securities, in deposit certificates and promissory notes issued, guaranteed or accepted by a bank or by an institution registered with the Régie de l'assurance-dépôts du Québec and in any promissory note issued by a legal person;

(2) an amount corresponding to not more than 3 % of the assets of the credit unions affiliated with it, in units, shares, bonds or debentures and, where the federation is affiliated with La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec, in bonds issued by the Confédération;

(3) not more than 7 % of its assets in property not referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2.

409. Every federation shall notify the confederation with which it is affiliated before acquiring voting shares.

410. Every federation not affiliated with a confederation shall keep a register of its own investments in shares as well as of those of the legal persons belonging to the same group and of the credit unions affiliated with it.

411. Every federation not affiliated with a confederation shall transmit to the Inspector General, within 30 days of the end of each semester of its fiscal year, a report on the investments in shares entered in the register it is required to keep pursuant to section 410, accompanied with a report of the board of supervision attesting that the investments are in compliance with this Act.

412. A federation may request from any legal person belonging to the same group any information required for the purposes of this division.

413. Where, following an amalgamation, securities held by a federation are replaced by securities which cause the federation to cease to meet the requirements of this division, the federation must take such action as is necessary to ensure its compliance with the said requirements within five years from the amalgamation.

The same rule applies if, as a result of a change concerning its affiliation with a confederation, securities held by a legal person are deemed to be held by a federation.

CHAPTER VIII

FUNDS OF A FEDERATION

DIVISION I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

414. Every federation shall, by by-law, establish a liquidity fund, a deposit fund and an investment fund.

Where the federation is affiliated with a confederation, it must comply with the by-laws adopted in that respect by the confederation.

Where the federation is not affiliated with a confederation, it shall submit its by-law for approval to the Government which may approve it with or without amendment.

415. The federation may, by by law, establish any other fund.

416. A federation may, with the approval of the Inspector General and on the conditions he determines, entrust all or part of the management of the funds it has established to any other person.

The person must undertake, in writing, to transmit annual statements to the Inspector General along with any other statement or information he requires and allow him to exercise the powers set out in section 488 for the purpose of verifying the accuracy of the statements and information.

417. Any sum deposited into a fund by a credit union constitutes a claim against the federation. However, only the net value of deposits made into the investment fund constitutes a claim.

Every deposit becomes payable upon the winding-up of the depositing federation or credit union or upon the disaffiliation of the credit union.

418. The assets of the funds are not separate from those of the federation. The federation must keep separate books and accounts of the operations relating to each fund.

419. Subject to the applicable regulations and by-laws, no sum deposited into a fund may be invested otherwise than in accordance with the federation's power to make investments or extend credit.

DIVISION II

LIQUIDITY FUND

420. The liquidity fund of a federation shall consist of the sums that the affiliated credit unions affiliated with it are required to deposit into the fund pursuant to section 265 and the income derived from the transactions made by the fund. The fund shall constitute a liquid asset reserve for the credit unions affiliated with the federation.

421. The board of directors shall establish the rate of interest payable on any balance remaining on the sums deposited into the liquidity fund by a credit union.

422. No federation may hypothecate, mortgage or pledge or otherwise give as security any asset of the liquidity fund except to secure a loan made in order to meet short term requirements for liquid funds arising from its transactions or in the case of an advance granted to it under section 40 of the Deposit Insurance Act.

DIVISION III

DEPOSIT FUND

423. The deposit fund of a federation shall consist of the sums deposited therein by the credit unions which are affiliated with the federation and by auxiliary members, and of the income derived from the transactions made by the fund.

424. The board of directors shall establish the rate of interest payable on any balance remaining on the sums deposited into the deposit fund.

DIVISION IV

INVESTMENT FUND

425. The investment fund of a federation shall consist of the sums entrusted to the fund as investment deposits by the credit unions which are affiliated with the federation, and of the income derived from the transactions made by the fund.

The deposits constitute the interest of the depositing credit unions in the net assets of the fund and do not bear interest. However, the credit unions shall share the net income therefrom in accordance with the by-laws of the confederation with which the federation of which they are members is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, with government regulations.

426. The criteria used to establish the credit union's interest in the investment fund of the federation with which it is affiliated are determined pursuant to the by-laws that are applicable to it under section 414.

427. The investment fund shall consist of the assets determined by the by-laws applicable to it under section 414, including all the federation's investments in shares, subordinated securities, cooperative or preferred shares, preferred equity shares and any contributions to a mutual insurance company.

CHAPTER IX

STANDARDS OF SOLVENCY

428. Every federation shall, in view of its transactions, establish and maintain sufficient capital stock as well as a general reserve and shall maintain such amount of liquid assets as is adequate to meet its requirements and liabilities, in accordance with the by-laws of the confederation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, with government regulations.

429. The Inspector General may give written instructions to a federation as to the adequacy of its capital stock, general reserve and liquid assets.

Before exercising the powers set out in the first paragraph, the Inspector General shall inform the federation of his intentions and give it an opportunity to be heard.

430. In determining whether the general reserve and liquid assets of a federation are adequate, the Inspector General shall exclude from it all or part of any credit extended or of any investment made by a federation contrary to this Act, except if the credit or investment was extended or made before (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) and as long as it is recognized as an asset by the Inspector General on the conditions he determines.

431. In the event of the winding-up or dissolution of the federation, the liquidator or Public Curator, as the case may be, shall, after the payments referred to in the first paragraph of section 314 are made, divide the remaining assets, among the credit unions affiliated with the federation in proportion to the number of qualifying shares held by each credit union. Where there remains no credit union affiliated with the federation, the liquidator shall transfer the remaining assets to the confederation with which the federation was affiliated or, if it was not affiliated, to a legal person designated by the Government.

CHAPTER X

SURPLUS EARNINGS

432. The sums paid into the stabilization fund established by a federation, out of its surplus earnings, may be allocated to the payment of interest on permanent shares issued by the credit unions affiliated with that federation.

CHAPTER XI

AUDIT

433. Every federation shall cause its books and accounts to be audited every year by two auditors.

Where the Inspector General appoints an auditor pursuant to section 283, the auditor may act alone.

One of the two auditors shall be appointed by the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

434. Where the office of the auditor appointed by the federation becomes vacant, the directors shall appoint a replacement. The directors may also appoint a person to exercise the duties of the auditor if the auditor is unable to act.

435. In no case may an auditor be

(1) an officer of the federation or confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case, or a person associated with such officers;

(2) an employee of the federation, of an affiliated credit union, of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, unless he is employed as an auditor by the confederation, or of any other legal person belonging to the same group as the federation.

436. The Inspector General or any interested person may apply to the Superior Court to obtain the dismissal of an auditor who does not meet the requirements of section 435.

CHAPTER XII

FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

437. Unless another date applicable to all the federations affiliated with it is prescribed by the by-law of a confederation, the fiscal year of a federation ends on 31 December each year.

438. The annual report of a federation must include, in addition to the information prescribed under Chapter XVII of Title II,

(1) a statement of the deposits made by the credit unions affiliated with it in each of its funds, established by classes of deposits according to their maturity dates and showing the average annual return obtained by each class;

(2) a statement of the credit extended and investments made out of each fund, established according to the various classes of credit or investments and their respective maturity dates and showing the average annual return obtained by each class;

(3) the net value of the investment fund and the method for calculating the value of the fund;

(4) a statement showing the consolidation value of any investment in shares of the same legal person carrying 20 % or more of the voting rights and any investment in voting shares of a controlled legal person;

(5) the statements prescribed under paragraph 4 of section 303, presented in combined form, according to generally accepted accounting principles.

439. At least 10 days before the date of the annual meeting, the board of directors shall send to each member a copy of the annual report.

440. The federation shall, in addition, publish each year a summary of the statements required by section 303, presented in combined form, in two daily newspapers.

441. Every federation shall also transmit to the Inspector General, every four months, a report on the adequacy of its capital stock, general reserve and liquid assets and on the level of the capital base applicable to it.

TITLE IV

CONFEDERATIONS

INTERPRETATION

442. Except where incompatible, the provisions of Title II and Title III and of government regulations thereunder, adapted as required, apply to a confederation.

The following sections do not apply to a confederation: sections 11 to 19, 67 to 109, 111, 154 to 183, 221, 227 to 254, 256 to 260, 262, 266 to 273, 305, 353, 354, 356 to 363, 375, 389 to 438 and 441.

443. Where Title II applies to a confederation, the provisions of any section relating to a federation or a confederation must be ignored.

Where Title III applies to a confederation, the words “credit union” mean “federation”. In addition, the provisions of any section relating to a confederation must be ignored.

CHAPTER II

INCORPORATION AND CORPORATE NAME

444. Six or more federations may apply for the incorporation of a confederation.

AUXILIARY MEMBERS

446. A confederation may admit any legal person, including a partnership, as an auxiliary member. A federation of savings and credit unions or of cooperatives with objects similar to those of a savings and credit union, incorporated outside Québec, may be admitted as an auxiliary member of a confederation to avail itself of the services offered by the confederation.

447. A confederation may establish by by-law one or more classes of auxiliary members and prescribe conditions for their admission, define their rights and obligations, prescribe criteria or conditions relating to their withdrawal, suspension or expulsion.

Auxiliary members are not entitled to vote and their representatives are not eligible for any office.

CHAPTER IV

DIRECTORS

448. Unless otherwise prescribed in the by-laws of a confederation, the directors of a confederation shall be elected from among the directors of the federations affiliated with it.

In no case may the majority of the members of the board of directors be employees of the confederation and of a federation affiliated with it.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

449. In addition to the powers it may exercise under this Act, a confederation may

(1) establish a pension plan under paragraph 6 of section 214 for the benefit of the employees of a federation affiliated with it or a credit union which is affiliated with such a federation, and their spouses or dependants;

(2) participate to the establishment and management of any service that may be offered or provided by a federation affiliated with it or a credit union affiliated with such a federation.

450. Every confederation shall, in view of its transactions, establish and maintain sufficient capital stock as well as a general reserve and shall maintain such amount of liquid assets as is adequate to meet its requirements.

The Inspector General may give written instructions to a confederation as to the adequacy of its capital stock, reserves and liquid assets.

He shall, before exercising that power, inform the confederation of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard.

A confederation may, by by-law applicable to the federations affiliated with it and to the credit unions affiliated with such federations, establish standards in respect of the adequacy of their liquid assets.

It may also, by by-law applicable to the federations affiliated with it, establish standards in respect of the adequacy of their capital stock and general reserve.

451. Every confederation shall adopt by-laws concerning the establishment and administration of funds mentioned in Chapter VIII of Title III by federations affiliated with it.

452. Every confederation may, by by-law, establish a separate fund to purchase permanent shares issued by credit unions that are members of the federations affiliated with it.

The by-law may in addition

(1) prescribe the conditions and method of operation of such a fund;

(2) designate the trust company entrusted with the administration of the fund, determine its powers and duties, fix its terms of reference and the method for determining its remuneration;

(3) prescribe the maximum amount that the trust company may borrow for the purposes of the fund or the method for determining such amount, the maximum term of the loan, the conditions under which it may be made and the nature of the related security;

(4) fix for each fiscal year of the fund the assessment that each credit union must pay into the fund, or the method for calculating such assessment;

(5) order the winding-up of the fund and determine the procedure therefor;

(6) prescribe any other measure required for the administration of the fund.

453. A fund established under section 452 shall receive the sums borrowed for its funding and the proceeds of the sale by the confederation of permanent shares held by the fund.

454. The sums which constitute a fund established under section 452 shall be deposited with a bank or an institution registered with the Régie de l'assurance-dépôts du Québec and shall be used exclusively for payment of the management costs of the fund, the capital and interest on any amount borrowed for its funding and the purchase price of the permanent shares issued by the credit unions which are members of the federations affiliated with the confederation which has established the fund.

455. The assets of a fund established under section 452 shall be separate from those of the confederation and shall alone serve for the performance of the obligations contracted for the purposes of the fund by the trust company entrusted with the administration of such fund.

Notwithstanding the first paragraph, in the event of the winding-up of the confederation, any balance remaining in the fund, after all its debts have been paid, shall be used for the payment of other debts of the confederation.

456. The by-laws of a confederation adopted under section 450 or 451 shall be submitted to the Government for approval. The Government may approve them with or without amendment.

457. A confederation may exercise, in the place and stead of an affiliated federation and after obtaining its advice, the regulatory powers set out in section 257 or 365.

However, a by-law adopted under the first paragraph may not amend, replace or repeal the provisions of a by-law of a federation, except to the extent expressly indicated therein.

Such a by-law is deemed to be a by-law of the federation, and the federation may, with the authorization of the confederation, amend, replace or repeal it.

458. Every confederation shall adopt by-laws applicable to the federations affiliated with it and the credit unions affiliated with such federations, with respect to

(1) reserves for bad debts to be maintained;

(2) requirements relating to accounting operations and to the books, records and other accounting records which must be kept;

(3) the management, conservation and destruction of documents issued or received by a credit union.

459. A confederation may, when adopting by-laws or making decisions by way of resolutions affecting the federations affiliated with it or the credit unions affiliated with such federations, establish classes of credit unions, federations or operations, and prescribe standards appropriate to each class.

460. A confederation may give to the federations affiliated with it, to the credit unions affiliated with such federations and to the holding companies controlled by it, written instructions to ensure that the investments they make are in compliance with the provisions of this Act. For this purpose, it may require any pertinent information from them.

The instructions of a confederation are binding on the persons to which they are addressed. The confederation shall send to the Inspector General a copy of such instructions within 10 days of their adoption.

461. Every confederation must establish and maintain an auditing service to audit the financial statements of the federations affiliated with it and credit unions affiliated with such federations or, if it does not establish such a service, designate an auditor for each federation and credit union.

A confederation must also establish and maintain an inspection service for such federations and credit unions.

462. Every confederation shall, at least once a year, inspect the internal affairs and activities of the federations affiliated with it and, at least, every 18 months, of the credit unions affiliated with such federations.

463. The periodical inspection shall be carried out, in particular, for the purposes of evaluating the financial policies and practices and the internal control systems of the federation and credit unions affiliated with it, verifying the accuracy of their financial statements and ensuring that they are complying with this Act and the regulations that are applicable to them under this Act.

464. Every person making an inspection under this chapter may

(1) enter, at any reasonable time, the place of business of any credit union or federation which is the subject of the inspection;

(2) examine and make copies of the books, registers, accounts, records and other documents relating to the activities of the credit union or federation;

(3) require any information or document relating to the carrying out of this Act.

Every person having custody, possession or control of the books, registers, accounts, records and other documents shall communicate them to the person, at his request, and facilitate his examination of them.

465. The confederation shall render an account of its inspection to the Inspector General, the board of directors, the credit committee and the board of supervision of the federation or credit union concerned.

The confederation shall also render an account of its inspection of the affairs of credit unions that are members of the federations affiliated with it to the security fund corporation incorporated at its request.

466. The confederation may convene, separately or jointly, the board of directors, credit committee or board of supervision of the inspected credit union or federation to submit and explain its inspection report to them.

467. Following the inspection of a credit union, the confederation may order that a special meeting be called to inform the members.

468. The person making the inspection of a federation or of an affiliated credit union, on behalf of the confederation, shall not be the person responsible for the audit of the federation.

DIVISION II

INVESTMENTS

469. A confederation shall not acquire shares issued by a legal person, except in the case of the shares of a holding company incorporated under the laws of Québec, which is or becomes, as a result of that acquisition, a legal person controlled by the confederation.

A confederation must dispose of all the shares held by it in a holding company, upon ceasing to control that holding company.

470. A holding company shall not acquire shares issued by a legal person, except

(1) shares issued by a bank or a legal person whose principal activities consist in fiduciary, insurance, mutual fund, securities brokerage or advisory or savings company matters, which is or becomes, as a result of such acquisition, a legal person controlled by the holding company;

(2) shares issued by a commercial bank or a legal person whose principal activities consist in leasing or factoring or in providing the confederation, the federations affiliated with it, a savings and credit union incorporated in Canada or any federation of such savings and credit unions or a legal person belonging to the same group as the confederation, with data processing, management, consultation or supply services or other services that are similar or, in the opinion of the Minister, auxiliary services with respect to the federations affiliated with the confederation or credit unions affiliated with them, where such legal person is or becomes, as a result of such acquisition, a legal person controlled by the holding company;

(3) shares issued by a legal person whose principal activities consist in holding and managing immovables and which is or becomes, as a result of such acquisition, a legal person controlled by the holding company;

(4) shares issued by a legal person engaging in commercial or industrial activities.

The Minister may authorize, on such conditions as he determines, minority investment under subparagraphs 1, 2 and 3.

No holding company acquiring shares in legal persons engaging in activities mentioned in any of the subparagraphs of the first paragraph, may acquire or hold shares issued by legal persons engaging in activities mentioned in another subparagraph.

Subject to the second paragraph, a holding company must dispose, within the time fixed by the Inspector General, of all the shares it holds in a legal person referred to in paragraph 1, 2 or 3 upon ceasing to control that legal person.

471. A holding company which may acquire shares issued by a legal person referred to in subparagraph 1 of the first paragraph of section 470 may, where authorized by the Minister, hold shares issued by another holding company specifically incorporated for the purpose of acquiring shares issued by such a legal person.

472. A holding company may also hold interests in joint ventures or partnerships whose principal activities consist in holding and managing immovable property or in enterprises whose activities are of a commercial or industrial nature.

473. With the exception of the sums deposited with a bank or an institution registered with the Régie de l'assurance-dépôts du Québec and the short-term investments it is authorized to make in accordance with the rules respecting the investment of property belonging to others provided in the Civil Code of Lower Canada, no holding company may invest its funds except in enterprises in which it may acquire shares or an interest.

474. A holding company shall not acquire shares issued by a legal person mentioned in subparagraphs 1 to 3 of the first paragraph of section 470 for the purpose of acquiring control of it unless the legal person, by a resolution of its board of directors, a copy of which shall be sent to the Inspector General, makes an undertaking to the confederation and the Inspector General

(1) not to engage in any activity other than those it was exercising at the time of the acquisition as long as it remains controlled by the holding company, unless it has obtained prior authorization in writing from the Inspector General;

(2) to submit annual financial statements to the Inspector General together with any other statement or information he may require and allow the Inspector General to exercise the powers set out in section 488 to verify the accuracy of the information.

475. The directors and officers of a holding company who authorize an investment which is not in compliance with the provisions of this division shall be jointly liable for any resulting losses to the company.

476. Any right of action arising from section 475 may be exercised by

(1) the holding company whose directors or officers authorized the investment;

(2) the confederation which controls the holding company, acting as the mandatary of the holding company, if the latter has neglected to exercise such right of action after having been formally notified to do so by the confederation;

(3) the Inspector General, acting as the mandatary of the holding company, if the latter and the confederation which controls it have both neglected to exercise such right of action after having been formally notified to do so by the Inspector General.

Where a formal notice is served by a confederation pursuant to subparagraph 2 of the first paragraph, a copy of the notice must be transmitted, at the same time, to the Inspector General.

477. The sole fact that the investments of a holding company are in compliance with this Act does not release the directors of the company from the obligations otherwise incumbent upon them.

CHAPTER VI

AUDIT

478. Every confederation shall cause its books and accounts to be audited every year by an auditor appointed for that purpose at the annual meeting.

479. In no case may the auditor be

(1) an officer of the confederation or a legal person belonging to the same group as the confederation or an associate of the officer;

(2) an employee of the confederation or of a federation affiliated with it, of a credit union affiliated with such a federation or a legal person belonging to the same group as the confederation.

TITLE V

SUPERVISION AND CONTROL

VALUATION OF ASSETS

480. Where the Inspector General is of the opinion that the value of an immovable property securing a claim of a credit union or federation is less than the amount of the loan granted, including accrued and outstanding interest, or where he considers the immovable property to be insufficient security, he may require the credit union or federation, as the case may be, to cause an appraisal of the immovable property to be made by an appraiser approved by him or he may himself cause it to be made.

Following the appraisal, the Inspector General may reduce the book value of the loan of the credit union or federation.

481. Where the Inspector General is of the opinion that the market value of any of the assets of a credit union, federation or confederation is less than the book value, he may require the credit union, federation or confederation, as the case may be, to cause an appraisal of the asset to be made by an appraiser approved by him or he may himself cause it to be made.

Following the appraisal, the Inspector General may reduce the book value of the asset of the credit union, federation or confederation.

482. Before requiring an appraisal of any immovable property or asset to be made or before making it himself, the Inspector General shall notify the credit union, federation or confederation concerned by such an appraisal of his intention and give it an opportunity to be heard. The Inspector General must do the same before assigning to any asset a value different from that determined by the appraiser.

The Inspector General shall notify, in writing, the credit union, federation or confederation and its auditor of the reduction made to the book value of one of its assets.

483. Unless the Inspector General decides otherwise, the appraisal shall be made at the expense of the credit union, federation or confederation concerned.

CHAPTER II

INSPECTION, EXAMINATIONS, INVESTIGATIONS AND INQUIRIES BY THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

484. The Inspector General shall ensure that the operations of every credit union, of the federation with which it is affiliated and of the confederation with which the federation is affiliated are audited in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

485. The Inspector General shall also ensure that the internal affairs and activities of every credit union and of the federation with which it is affiliated are inspected.

The Inspector General shall, at least once a year, make the inspection of the internal affairs and activities of every confederation or cause such inspection to be made.

486. The Inspector General shall, at least once a year, make the inspection of the internal affairs and activities of every credit union not affiliated with a federation and of those of every federation not affiliated with a confederation or cause such inspection to be made.

487. The annual inspection shall be carried out, in particular, for the purposes of evaluating the financial policies and practices and the internal control systems of a confederation, of the federations and of the credit unions, verifying the accuracy of their financial statements and ensuring that they are complying with this Act and the regulations applicable to them under this Act.

488. The Inspector General may, of his own initiative, make or cause to be made any examination and any investigation he considers necessary or expedient, into the internal affairs and activities of any credit union, federation, confederation, or holding company with subsidiaries exercising any of the activities mentioned in subparagraph 1 or 2 of the first paragraph of section 470, in order to ensure compliance with this Act, the government regulations thereunder, his written instructions or a compliance program.

489. The Inspector General shall, in addition, make, at the request of a credit union's board of directors or board of supervision, of 100 of its members if there are 300 members or more or of one-third of its members if there are fewer than 300, or of the federation with which the credit union is affiliated, any examination and any investigation he considers necessary or expedient into the internal affairs and activities of the credit union or cause such examination or investigation to be made.

The Inspector General shall render an account of any examination and any investigation to the member of the credit union who made the request and to the credit union's board of supervision, to the federation with which it is affiliated and to the confederation with which the federation is affiliated, where that is the case.

The expenses incurred for any examination or investigation made under this section by the Inspector General shall be charged to the credit union.

490. For the purposes of this Act, every person making an inspection or examinations and investigations under this chapter may

(1) enter, at any reasonable time, the place of business of any legal person who is the object of the inspection or of examinations and investigations;

(2) examine and make copies from the books, registers, accounts, records and other documents relating to the activities of the legal person;

(3) require any information or document relating to the enforcement of this Act.

Every person having custody, possession or control of the books, registers, accounts, records and other documents shall communicate them to the person making the inspection, or the examinations and investigations, at his request, and facilitate his examination of them.

491. The person making an inspection or examinations and investigations shall identify himself on request and produce a certificate, signed by the Inspector General, attesting his capacity.

492. No person may hinder the work of any person making an inspection or examinations and investigations, in particular by misleading him.

493. The Inspector General or his representative, in exercising his powers of inspection, may, if he has reasonable grounds to believe an offence has been committed under this Act or another Act under the administration of the Inspector General or a regulation made thereunder or a by-law approved by the Government, seize any relevant document provided he leaves a copy with the person from whom it is seized; the Inspector General shall have the safekeeping of the seized document.

The Inspector General shall not detain the seized document for over 90 days unless proceedings are brought within that time. The chief judge or associate chief judge of the Court of the Sessions of the Peace may order the detention period reduced or extended for a further 90 days.

494. The Inspector General may order an inquiry into any matter within his jurisdiction, if he is of the opinion that the public interest requires it.

The Inspector General and any person authorized by him in writing have the powers and immunity of commissioners appointed under the Act respecting public inquiry commissions (R.S.Q., chapter C-37), except the power to order imprisonment.

495. Subject to sections 534 and 535, no person employed by the Government or authorized by the Inspector General to make inspections or inquiries shall communicate or allow to be communicated to anyone any information obtained in accordance with the provisions of this Act or a regulation made thereunder by the Government, or allow anyone to examine a document filed thereunder, except to such extent as he may be authorized by the Inspector General.

Notwithstanding sections 9, 23, 24 and 59 of the Act respecting Access to documents held by public bodies and the Protection of personal information (R.S.Q., chapter A-2.1), only a person generally or specially authorized by the Inspector General himself may have access to such information or document.

CHAPTER III

ORDERS

496. Where, in the opinion of the Inspector General, a credit union, a federation, a confederation, a holding company controlled directly or indirectly by a confederation or a legal person controlled by such a holding company does not adhere to sound financial practices or is not complying with this Act, a government regulation thereunder, a compliance program, an undertaking given under this Act or the rules of ethics on self-dealing and conflict of interest, he may order them to cease such practices and to remedy the situation.

497. The order of the Inspector General must state the reasons which support it and shall be sent to each director of the legal person contemplated by such order. The order shall become effective on the day it is served or on any later date indicated therein.

Before issuing an order, the Inspector General shall give the contravener at least 15 days' notice indicating the grounds purporting to justify the order, the date on which the order is to take effect and the right of the contravener to be heard.

498. However, the Inspector General may, without prior notice, issue a provisional order valid for a period not exceeding 15 days if he is of the opinion that any delay to allow a hearing may be detrimental.

Such order must state the reasons on which it is based and shall become effective on the day it is served on the person contemplated by it. The latter may, within six days of receipt thereof, apply in writing to the Inspector General for a hearing.

499. The Inspector General may revoke an order issued under this chapter.

INJUNCTION

500. The Inspector General may, by a motion, apply to a judge of the Superior Court for an injunction in respect of any matter relating to this Act or the regulations made thereunder by the Government.

The motion for an injunction constitutes an action.

The procedure prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure applies, except that the Inspector General cannot be required to give security.

CHAPTER V

PROVISIONAL ADMINISTRATION

501. The Minister may, on the recommendation of the Inspector General, suspend the powers of the board of directors, the credit committee or the board of supervision of a credit union, federation or confederation, as the case may be, and appoint a provisional administrator to exercise the powers thereof for such period as the Minister may determine if he has grounds to believe

(1) that the credit union has failed to maintain a capital base meeting the requirements of the by-laws of the federation with which it is affiliated or, if it is not affiliated, of this Act;

(2) that the federation has failed to maintain a capital base meeting the requirements of this Act;

(3) that the assets of the credit union or the federation are inadequate to ensure efficient protection of the depositors, creditors and members;

(4) that the credit union, the federation or the confederation, as the case may be, does not adhere to sound financial or administrative practices;

(5) that the credit union or the federation has failed to comply with the Inspector General's written instructions concerning a compliance program;

(6) that there has been misappropriation of property;

(7) that there has been a grievous offence, especially embezzlement or breach of trust by one or more members of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision, or that such members have been seriously remiss in the performance of the obligations imposed on them by this Act or a government regulation thereunder.

The person appointed by the Minister may authorize any person to exercise the powers set out in the first paragraph.

502. Before exercising the powers set out in section 501, the Minister shall give the members of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision whose powers are suspended the opportunity to be heard. He shall also give the federation or the confederation with which the credit union or the federation is affiliated, as the case may be, the opportunity to be heard.

However, where it is imperative to do so, the Minister may order the suspension, for a period not exceeding 15 days, without giving the members referred to in the first paragraph, and the federation or the confederation, as the case may be, the opportunity to be heard.

503. Where the powers of the board of directors are suspended, the provisional administrator shall exercise, in addition to the powers of the board of directors, those of the general meeting.

504. The provisional administrator shall remain in office until the expiry of the period for which he has been appointed, unless the Minister prolongs his term of office or terminates it.

505. The provisional administrator cannot be prosecuted by reason of any act done in good faith in the performance of his duties.

506. The provisional administrator shall submit to the Minister, as soon as possible, a detailed report of his findings, together with his recommendations.

He shall also, at the Minister's request, submit any additional report.

508. The Minister, after considering the report of the provisional administrator, may

(1) rescind, on such conditions as he may determine, the suspension of the powers of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision, or extend such suspension for such period as he may determine;

(2) dismiss from office the members of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision and order the provisional administrator to call a special meeting to elect new members;

(3) order, on such conditions as he may determine, the winding-up of the credit union, federation or confederation and appoint a liquidator.

Any member of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision who is dismissed from office under this section becomes disqualified from sitting as a member of the board of directors, of the credit committee or of the board of supervision of any credit union, federation or confederation for a period of five years from the date of his dismissal.

509. The decision of the Minister ordering the winding-up of the credit union, federation or confederation has the same effect as an order made by a judge of the Superior Court under section 24 of the Winding-up Act. Division IV of the said Act and sections 311 and 313 to 320 of this Act, adapted as required, apply to the winding-up.

For the purposes of the Winding-up Act, “company” means a credit union, federation or confederation, as the case may be, and “shareholder” means a member of a credit union, federation or confederation. In addition, where a provision of the said Act requires the vote of shareholders representing a fixed proportion of the capital stock of a company, the provision is considered to require the vote of a number of members of the credit union, federation or confederation, corresponding to the proportion specified in value.

A winding-up order under this section is final. However, the Minister may terminate the winding-up where the interest of the members justifies it.

510. The expenses, fees and outlays entailed by the provisional administration shall be borne by the credit union, federation or confederation concerned, unless the Minister orders otherwise.

CHAPTER VI

REPORTS OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

511. The Inspector General shall each year submit a report to the Minister on the financial position of the credit unions, federations and confederations. The report shall include any other information considered appropriate by the Inspector General or required by the Minister.

512. The Minister shall on or before 30 June each year table in the National Assembly a report of the Inspector General on the state of affairs of the credit unions, federations and confederations. If the National Assembly is not sitting at the appointed date, the report shall be tabled within 15 days from the beginning of the next session or resumption.

TITLE VI

REGULATIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT

513. The Government may, by regulation,

(1) prescribe the fees exigible for any formality or procedure under this Act or a government regulation thereunder and for the examination or reproduction of documents and prescribe the terms and conditions of payment of such fees;

(2) prescribe, for the purposes of sections 36, 48 and 60, the documents which must be filed with articles of incorporation;

(3) prescribe standards, conditions and restrictions relating to the credit that an unaffiliated credit union may extend to its members;

(4) determine the assets which, in addition to those provided for in this Act, may be added to or deducted from the capital base of a credit union or federation as well as the proportion of these assets to each other and the conditions and limitations attaching to them;

(5) determine the liabilities which, in addition to those provided for in this Act, constitute a liability of a credit union or federation;

(6) prescribe standards relating to the valuation of the assets and liabilities of a credit union or federation;

(7) determine the additional information that must be stated by the auditor in a report under section 291 or 299;

(8) determine the additional information that must appear in the annual report of a credit union, federation or confederation;

(9) prescribe standards relating to the accounting, on a combined basis, of the assets and liabilities which constitute the capital base and liabilities of a federation, of the credit unions affiliated with the federation and, where applicable, of La Caisse centrale Desjardins du Québec;

(10) prescribe standards respecting the adequacy of the capital stock, general reserve and liquid assets that are applicable to a federation not affiliated with a confederation;

(11) prescribe conditions and restrictions governing the flow of information within a credit union or a federation of credit unions, to and from a credit union and legal persons belonging to the same group as the federation with which the credit union is affiliated or to and from a credit union, or a federation, and a restricted party, with a view to reducing the risks of conflicts of interest;

(12) prescribe standards designed to ensure the protection of the public and the confidentiality of information where a credit union or a federation of credit unions offers for sale the products of a financial institution;

(13) prescribe standards governing arrangements between a credit union and a federation with which it is affiliated and legal persons belonging to the same group as the federation with which it is affiliated for the sale of their financial products, and conditions permitting such arrangements to be made;

(14) prescribe the time when and the manner in which the persons who make transactions with a credit union must be informed of the charges on services offered by the credit union;

(15) prescribe the time when and the manner in which depositors must be informed of the rates and method of computing interest on their deposits, and the other requirements for their valid information;

(16) limit, in the cases it determines, the total par value of permanent shares that credit unions may issue to each of their members;

(17) prescribe standards relating to the disclosure of the characteristics of the various shares which credit unions may issue and conditions governing their issue on the market;

(18) determine from among the regulatory provisions made under this section those the contravention of which constitutes an offence.

514. The Government may adopt regulations on subject-matters referred to in section 425 or 451 which are applicable to a federation not affiliated with a confederation and to the credit unions which are affiliated with such a federation.

515. The Government may, in the place and stead of a federation not affiliated with a confederation and after obtaining the advice of the federation, exercise the regulatory powers conferred on the federation under section 365.

However, no regulation adopted by the Government under the first paragraph may amend, replace or repeal the prescriptions of a by-law of the federation except to such extent as may be expressly indicated therein.

Such a regulation is deemed to be a by-law of the federation and the federation may, with the approval of the Government, amend, replace or repeal it.

516. The Government may, in the place and stead of a confederation and after obtaining the advice of the confederation, exercise the regulatory powers conferred on the confederation under sections 451, 452 and 457.

However, no regulation adopted by the Government under the first paragraph may amend, replace or repeal the prescriptions of a by-law of the confederation except to such extent as may be expressly indicated therein.

Such a regulation is deemed to be a by-law of the confederation and the confederation may with the approval of the Government amend, replace or repeal it.

517. In exercising its regulatory powers, the Government may establish various classes of credit unions, federations, confederations and holding or investment companies and prescribe appropriate rules for each class.

TITLE VII

PENAL PROVISIONS

518. Every person who contravenes any provision of the second paragraph of section 21, of section 23, 26, 71, 72, 78, 82, 87, 261 or 275, of the first paragraph of section 277 or of section 286, 335, 336 or 479 is guilty of an offence.

519. Every legal person who, by means of a name or designation or otherwise, represents himself falsely as an institution governed by this Act, is guilty of an offence.

520. Every person who omits or refuses to furnish any information, report or other document that are required to be furnished under this Act, is guilty of an offence.

521. Every person who knowingly gives the Minister, the Inspector General or any other person false or misleading information, reports or other documents that are required to be furnished under this Act, is guilty of an offence.

522. Every person who omits or refuses to keep a book or a register required under this Act or to make a required entry therein is guilty of an offence.

523. Every person who makes an entry required under this Act in a book or register, which he knows to be false or misleading, is guilty of an offence.

524. Every person who hinders a person who, as part of his duties, is making an inspection or an investigation, filing an application or making an audit under this Act, is guilty of an offence.

525. Every person who fails to comply with an order or written instructions issued or given by the Inspector General under section 24, 231, 238, 264, 373, 398, 429, 450, 496 or 498 is guilty of an offence.

526. Every person found guilty of an offence under any of sections 518 to 525 is liable, in addition to costs, to a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $2 000 in the case of a natural person and of not less than $600 nor more than $30 000 in the case of a legal person.

Every person found guilty of an offence under the regulations made under paragraph 18 of section 513 is liable, in addition to costs, to a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $2 000 in the case of a natural person and of not less than $600 nor more than $30 000 in the case of a legal person.

person and of not less than $600 nor more than $30 000 in the case of a legal person.

In determining the fines, the court shall take particular account of the damage involved and the benefits derived as a result of the commission of the offence.

527. Every credit union or federation which, contrary to sections 241 and 250 to 253, engages in a transaction with a person whom it knows to be a restricted party, and every officer who authorized such a transaction, are guilty of an offence.

Every person found guilty of an offence described in the first paragraph is liable, in addition to costs, to a fine of not less than $600 nor more than $30 000.

528. For each subsequent offence within two years of conviction for an offence under the same provision, the minimum and maximum fines provided for in sections 526 and 527 shall be doubled.

529. Every person who, by act or omission, aids another in committing an offence may be found guilty of the offence as if he had committed it himself, if he knew or should have known that his act or omission would probably result in aiding in the commission of the offence.

530. Every person who abets, counsels or commands another to commit an offence may be found guilty of the offence as if he had committed it himself, and of any other offence committed by the other as a result of the abetment, counsel or command, if he knew or should have known that his action would probably result in the commission of the offence.

531. Proceedings taken under this Act are instituted by the Attorney General or by a person generally or specially authorized by him in writing for that purpose.

TITLE VIII

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

532. The Inspector General has the custody of all registers and records required for the administration of this Act.

533. The Inspector General shall register all documents which must be registered under this Act by depositing them in a register together with a certificate establishing, under his signature, that it is an authentic document, the date of registration and the numbers of the volume and folio of the register in which that document is deposited.

534. The Inspector General shall preserve and keep open for examination by the public, during office hours, the registers used for registration purposes under this Act.

535. The Inspector General shall furnish and deliver copies of the documents he registers pursuant to this Act and of the certificate of their registration and issue, under his signature, attestations relating to those objects to all persons requiring them.

536. The certificates issued by the Inspector General, the duplicates of articles attached thereto and all documents issued by the Inspector General under this Act shall be held as authentic.

The signature of the Inspector General on copies of documents, registers and records is proof of the fact that these documents exist and are lawfully in his possession.

Any copy signed by the Inspector General is equivalent to the original itself in any court of justice, and any document or copy purporting to bear his signature is deemed to do so until proof of the contrary.

Every copy of the registration made at full length of articles and other documents which must be registered under this Act, duly certified by the Inspector General, is deemed authentic and is evidence of their registration, and has the same effect as the production in court of the articles or documents.

537. The Inspector General may correct an incomplete certificate or a certificate containing an error.

The completed or corrected certificate is deemed to have been issued on the date shown in the certificate that it replaces or on the date that should have been shown in it, where such is the case.

538. If a completed or corrected certificate materially amends the incomplete certificate or the certificate containing an error, the Inspector General shall give notice thereof in the Gazette officielle du Québec.

539. It shall not be necessary in any proceedings to produce the original of any book, document, order or register in the possession of the Inspector General; a copy or extract certified true by him shall be sufficient proof of the original.

540. The production of the affidavit of a member of the staff of the Inspector General makes proof before the court of the signature and quality of the signatory.

541. The Inspector General may, of his own motion and without notice, intervene in any civil action concerning a provision of this Act or a government regulation thereunder to take part in the proof or hearing as if he were a party.

542. The expenses incurred for the administration of this Act, determined each year by the Government, shall be charged to the unaffiliated credit unions and to the federations.

543. The amount exigible from each unaffiliated credit union shall correspond to the sum of the following amounts:

(1) a minimum amount fixed each year by the Government for each credit union;

(2) an amount corresponding to the product obtained by multiplying the sum of the average assets of all the credit unions at the end of the preceding year by the fraction corresponding to the average assets of the credit union at the end of the same year over the said sum.

544. The amount exigible from each federation shall correspond to the sum of the following amounts:

(1) a minimum amount fixed each year by the Government for each credit union affiliated with the federation;

(2) an amount corresponding to the product obtained by multiplying the sum of the average assets of all the credit unions at the end of the preceding year by the fraction corresponding to the sum of the average assets of all the credit unions affiliated with the federation at the end of the same year over the sum of the average assets of all the credit unions at the end of the same year.

545. For the purposes of sections 543 and 544, the average assets are considered equal to the amount represented by the sum of the assets from the beginning and end of the preceding year, divided by two.

546. To determine the amount exigible for the purposes of this Act, the unaffiliated credit unions and the federations must furnish to the Inspector General such report or information as the latter may require.

547. Every credit union affiliated with a federation must, at the request of the federation, pay to it an amount calculated in accordance with section 543.

TITLE IX

TITLE X

TRANSITIONAL AND FINAL PROVISIONS

572. The Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4) in force on (insert here the date of the day preceding the day of coming into force of this section) applies to the applications for the incorporation and amalgamation of credit unions, federations and confederations filed with the Minister responsible until that date.

573. Declarations of foundation and deeds of agreement for the amalgamation of credit unions, federations and confederations that have been approved by the Minister responsible before (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) are deemed to be the articles of such credit unions, federations and confederations for the purposes of this Act and of section 579.

of such credit unions, federations and confederations for the purposes of this Act and of section 579.

574. A credit union or a federation of credit unions, incorporated under the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4), may request from the Inspector General, upon payment of the fees exigible under Government regulation, that a certificate attesting its incorporation be made.

575. A director of a credit union, federation or confederation, elected in accordance with the provisions of the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4), in office at the time of the coming into force of the provisions of this Act which pertain to the capacity of a director and which would apply to him, shall remain in office until the expiration of his term.

The same applies to a member of a credit committee or of a board of supervision elected in accordance with the provisions of the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4), in office at the time of the coming into force of the provisions of this Act which pertain to the capacity of such members and which would apply to him.

576. Sections 244, 245 and 246 shall apply only with regard to accounts which become inactive accounts within the meaning of section 243 after (insert here the date occurring seven years from the date of assent to this Act).

577. Co-op shares issued by a credit union, federation or confederation, other than qualifying shares, remain shares to which the provisions of the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4) that pertain to their repayment and to the payment of interest on the amounts paid for these shares shall apply. Interest which has been calculated on these shares before (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) shall remain payable.

However, a federation may, by by-law, convert such shares into preferred shares which, as such, are subject to the provisions of this Act.

578. A credit union or a federation extending credit or granting loans otherwise than in accordance with this Act on (insert here the date of coming into force of this section), shall have two years from that date to comply with it.

However, an unaffiliated credit union or a federation which on (insert here the date of coming into force of this section), holds shares that, by virtue of the second paragraph of section 260 and section 403, it would not be authorized to acquire or hold shall dispose of such shares within five years from that date. The period shall be extended to 10 years in the case of shares of the corporation mentioned in Schedule B to the Act respecting La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec that are held by a federation.

The Inspector General may grant extensions, on the conditions he determines.

579. An unaffiliated credit union or a federation whose capital base is not at least equal to the level prescribed by this Act on (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) shall have two years from that date to comply.

The Inspector General may grant an extension on the conditions he determines.

580. The Inspector General may for the first fiscal year ending after (insert here the date of coming into force of this section) exempt a credit union, federation or confederation, on the conditions he determines, from compliance with all or some of the provisions of sections 303 and 438.

581. A federation affiliated with a confederation must, before (insert here the date occurring three months after the date of coming into force of this section), provide the confederation with a list of its own investments in shares, indicating the percentages of voting rights attached to these shares.

A federation unaffiliated with a confederation and a confederation must, within six months following (insert here the date of coming into force of this section), transmit to the Inspector General a list of their own investments in shares and those of the legal persons belonging to the same group. This list must indicate the percentages of voting rights attached to these shares.

582. A federation shall, in the year following the adoption of the by-laws of the confederation with which it is affiliated, where that is the case, or following approval by the Government of a by-law providing for the establishment of its liquidity fund, deposit fund and investment fund:

(1) establish, in conjunction with the confederation with which it is affiliated, where such is the case, a plan for allotting its assets to each of these funds;

(2) carry out, after approval of the allotment plan by the Inspector General for the period he determines, the allotting of its shares in accordance with the plan and the by-laws which are applicable.

No by-law referred to in the first paragraph may come into force before one year from the date of its adoption or, as the case may be, its approval.

583. In any Act, or statutory instrument, or in any contract or other document, unless the context indicates otherwise

(1) a reference to the Savings and Credit Unions Act or to any of its provisions is a reference to this Act or to the corresponding provision of this Act;

(2) the expression “federation within the meaning of the Savings and Credit Unions Act” means “a federation and a confederation” within the meaning of this Act;

(3) the expression “bodies governed by the Savings and Credit Unions Act” means “a credit union, a federation and a confederation” governed by this Act;

(4) the expression “legal person who is not governed by the Savings and Credit Unions Act” includes a holding company referred to in section 469.

However, a reference to the Savings and Credit Unions Act or to any of its provisions in the Act respecting the caisses d’entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter C-3), the Act respecting certain caisses d’entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter C-3.1), the Act respecting the sociétés d’entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter S-25.1), the Cooperative Syndicates Act (R.S.Q., chapter S-38) and Division III of the Act respecting La Confédération des caisses populaires et d’économie Desjardins du Québec (1971, chapter 80) remains a reference to the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4) or to one of its provisions.

584. The Minister shall, on or before (insert here the date of the day occurring five years after the date of coming into force of this section), make a report to the Government on the implementation of this Act and subsequently, every five years, on the advisability of keeping it in force or of amending it, as the case may be.

The report shall be tabled before the National Assembly within the ensuing 15 days if it is sitting, or if not, it shall be filed with the President of the National Assembly.

[[585. The sums required for the carrying out of this Act shall be taken, for the financial year (insert here the two years covered by the financial year in which this section comes into force) and to the extent that the Government determines, out of the consolidated revenue fund.]]

586. The Inspector General of Financial Institutions is responsible for the carrying out of this Act.

587. The Government shall designate the minister responsible for the administration of this Act.

588. The Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4) is replaced by this Act, to the extent indicated by the orders made pursuant to section 589, except for the purposes of the Act respecting the caisses d'entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter C-3), the Act respecting certain caisses d'entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter C-3.1), the Act respecting the sociétés d'entraide économique (R.S.Q., chapter S-25.1) and Division III of the Act respecting La Confédération des caisses populaires et d'économie Desjardins du Québec (1971, chapter 80).

589. The provisions of this Act come into force on the date or dates fixed by the Government, except those of section 345, of the second paragraph of section 448 and of section 569 which shall come into force on (insert here the date of the day occurring two years from the date of assent to this Act).

Every order made under this section shall indicate which provisions of the Savings and Credit Unions Act (R.S.Q., chapter C-4) are replaced by the provisions of this Act which are put into force by the order.
